YOU'LL GET BETTER

of that digestive trouble of yours but you must no longer delay the proper treatment, because digestive troubles have an awkward tendency to become very obdurate if neglected. Early symptoms should be "nipped in the bud." You know them all very well—everybody does—biliousness, constipation, dizziness, flatulence, headaches, heartburn, dyspepsia, and the rest. Distressed by such ailments as these how can you expect to feel bright and energetic? But you can shake them off, and that right speedily.

IF YOU TAKE

Beecham's Pills—the grand old medicine which is "worth a guinea a box" to all those unfortunate enough to be afflicted with digestive derangement. Don't delay in getting a box. Don't delay in taking a dose. Don't forget to keep on taking them until you are quite well. You will feel yourself getting better and better every day if you take

BEECHAM'S PILLS.

Sold in boxes, labelled price 1/1½ (56 pills) and 2/9 (168 pills).

YESTERDAY IN THE LAW COURTS.

ABANDONED RAILWAY PROJECT.

PROMOTERS' COSTS.

In the Chancery Division, before Mr. Justice Powell, the matter of the winding up of the abandoned project for the construction of a railway between Newry, Keady and Tynan was before the Court in reference to claims upon the funds in Court.

The application was for further consideration of the Chief Clerk's certificate, and had reference to the sum of money that had been deposited by the promoters under the Parliamentary Deposits and Bonds Act. The railway project had been ultimately abandoned after heavy promotion expenses had been incurred, but the funds in Court had not yet been allocated.

Mr. Newett, with whom was Mr. S. L. Brown, K.C. (instructed by Messrs. W. J. Shannon and Co), appeared for the representatives of John Kennedy, deceased, and stated the various steps that had been taken in the matter. An order had been made by the Court that the fund in Court should be applied in the first place in compensating persons who had suffered injury from the undertaking, and, secondly, as assets of the company for the benefit of its creditors. A reference was then made to the Chief Clerk, who in his first certificate disallowed the claims of landowners, who alleged that they suffered injury to their property. The certificate was varied by Mr. Justice Ross, it appearing that the claimants had received notice that portion of their lands would be required for the purposes of the railway, and who had consequently incurred costs in attending the arbitration proceedings that followed. As the railway project was dropped the arbitration proceedings became abortive, and no provision was made for the payment of the costs to which the claimants had been put. Mr. Justice Ross ordered that these claims should be allowed as against the fund, and the matter went back to the Chief Clerk to have this order carried out. The Chief Clerk had accordingly made out a new certificate which now came before the Court.

Mr. Justice Powell said that he would not alter what Mr. Justice Ross had done.

Mr. Newett said that on the schedule attached to the Chief Clerk's certificate there were 270 claims, and they amounted to £2,236. He asked that the claimants should be declared entitled to be paid the respective sums due to them in priority to the creditors, and then that there should be a general allocation. There was about £11,000 in Court, and it was believed that there would be enough to pay all creditors.

Mr. Justice Powell made the order asked for.

Mr. Newett asked that the petitioner should be allowed his costs as petitioner's costs. He had the general carriage of the matter. The petitioner died since the proceedings commenced, and an order was made continuing the proceedings in the name of his representatives.

Mr. Justice Powell said that the petitioner should have his costs in priority as petitioner, but his costs as a creditor would remain as ordered by Mr. Justice Ross, and also his costs of proving the claim.

Mr. S. Kerr, representing Messrs. R. A. Mullen and Sons, for the company, asked for any additional costs incurred by them subsequent to the order of 1916.

Mr. Justice Powell granted the application.

Mr. J. R. Cresswell, for Mr. A. C. Duncan, one of the defendants, also asked for costs.

Mr. Gartlan asked for costs for Mr. Arthur McCann.

Mr. Justice Powell made the orders asked for.

A KILDARE PROPERTY.

APPOINTMENT OF TRUSTEES.

In the Chancery Division, before Mr. Justice Powell, in the matter of the leasehold house known as Athgarvan Lodge, with the grounds and lands occupied therewith, being part of the townlands of Blackrath and Athgarvan, situated in the Barony of Connell, Co. Kildare, Mr. Vaughan Wilson (instructed by Messrs. Hayes and Sons) applied, on behalf of Mrs. Bessie Pallin, widow, of 63 Lower Baggot street, Dublin, for an order appointing Mr. Philip Pallin, Thornton Lodge, Curragh Camp, County Kildare, farmer, and Mr. Claude J. Law, 60 Dawson street, Dublin, solicitor, trustees under the Settled Land Acts for the purposes of sale. The lands had been settled by a settlement created by the will of the late Mr. William Pallin, deceased, dated September 4, 1903. Messrs. William A. Pallin and Philip Pallin, sons, were the trustees appointed by the will; but they had no power of sale or of consenting to a sale of these premises.

In an affidavit Mrs. Pallin stated that the above-mentioned house and lands had been assigned to her upon trust, under which she had a beneficial interest as equitable tenant for life in possession, provided that she did not remarry, and that in the events that had happened her grand-daughter, Gladys Pallin, was entitled in remainder. The "Blackrath Cottages" portion of the property had been sold. She had agreed to sell the above-mentioned house and premises for £500 to Mr. William White, of Blackrath, Curragh. She also wished to dispose of Athgarvan Lodge and the remainder of the property, but she had not yet entered into any agreement for the sale.

Mr. Hayes, solicitor, said that an offer had been received for this portion, and a contract of sale was about to be entered into.

Mr. Justice Powell made an order appointing the gentlemen named, subject to the filing of a supplemental affidavit.

LIABILITY FOR RATES.

In the Court of Appeal, before Lords Justices Ronan and O'Connor, and Mr. Justice Dodd, an appeal, in the case of Mrs. C. R. Morton Jackson against Colonel Stopford and another, came on for hearing. The defendant and his wife appealed from a judgment of Mr. Justice Gordon, who found in favour of the defendant in respect of a counter-claim for £27 17s. 6d. rates other than poor's rates due on premises at Ahanesk, Midleton, Co. Cork, and in favour of the plaintiff in respect of claims for rectification or recision of a lease of December 27th, 1913, whereby the premises were let for 21 years, which contained a proviso on the part of the lessor to pay all rates, taxes, and assessments in respect of the premises, and to indemnify the lessors therefrom. After the decision of the House of Lords in the case of Bradshaw v. McMullen, the plaintiff contended that she was not liable to carry out her covenant to indemnify the defendants as regards the payment of rates or taxes, as provided by the lease. Mr. Justice Gordon upheld the plaintiff's contention, save that he gave judgment for the defendants on their counter-claim for the rates other than the poor's rates, for which the defendants were primarily responsible under the Local Government Act of 1908.

The arguments had not concluded at the rising of the Court.

Mr. Jellett, K.C.; Mr. Conner, K.C.; and Mr. O'Donoghue (instructed by Messrs. P. W. Bass and Co.) appeared for the appellants (defendants).

Messrs. W. Gibson, K.C., and J. Reardon (instructed by Mr. Arthur Julian) appeared for the respondent (plaintiff).

INSURANCE OF A MOTOR CAR.

In the King's Bench Division before Mr. Justice Pim and Mr. Justice Samuels, in the case of Furey v. the Eagle Star and British Dominion Insurance Company, Mr. Denning, K.C., with whom was Mr. Dockrell (instructed by Mr. James McLoughlin), moved to stay the proceedings and to refer it to arbitration. The action was to recover £1,220, being the amount of a policy on a motor charabanc which was accidentally burned. There was a clause in the policy which provided that if any difference or dispute arose between the insured and the company as to the meaning of the policy or the liability, it should be referred to arbitration. The company alleged that, when Mr. Furey was making the proposal, he omitted to mention some matters connected with a previous accident to his cars, and that accordingly the policy was null and void. Mr. Furey replied that any previous accident was a very small one, and that the agent of the defendant company who took the proposal for the policy knew all about it, and that there was no concealment. Counsel said that this was a matter that could be decided by arbitration under the clause referred to, and the company desired that course to be adopted.

Mr. Dickie, K.C., with whom was Mr. James Henry (instructed by Mr. S. C. Rutherford), for the plaintiff, submitted that once the defendants alleged that a policy was void, they could not rely on its arbitration clause, and that this was clearly laid down in a decision in the House of Lords (the Juridini case) and also in Ballasty's case in this court.

Mr. Justice Pim said that this case could not be distinguished from Ballasty's, and the court now dismissed the motion with costs.

FROST-BOUND AT WARWICK.

TO-DAY'S DOUBTFUL PROSPECTS.

The rapidity with which frost developed at Warwick during Sunday night was astonishing. Fourteen degrees was registered before daybreak, and the glass marked ten when Messrs. J. P. Arkwright, T. F. Dawkins, and the Clerk of the Course, Mr. W. J. Davidson, inspected the ground at half-past eight o'clock, and decided to defer a definite decision respecting racing until eleven o'clock. At that hour it was obvious that it would be impossible to "carry on," and a postponement was made for twenty-four hours, the second day's card being abandoned.

According to notices at Paddington racing was certain, but en route the state of the country did not indicate so, with the result that disappointment ran high. Racing may be possible to-day, but I should be venturesome to confidently say so. The weather improved but slightly during the day, and the outlook is not too hopeful. My selections are:—

ARMY CUP.

IRISH SECTION FINAL.

VICTORY OF THE GLOUCESTERS.

The Royal Sussex and Gloucester Regiments have fine records as cup-fighters, and it was expected that the Sussex, who beat the A.E. Corps last Wednesday, would win yesterday's final at Richmond Barracks. Their tiring experiences last week, however, and the splendid dash and determination which the Gloucesters into their attack proved too much for them. The teams were:—

Royal Sussex Regt.—Hobson; Oakley, Holmes; Lieut. Poole, Stowell, Oakley; Lieut. Osborne, Ray, Jones, Capt. Maiden, and Moylan.

Gloucester Regt.—Hewitt; Higgins, Clarke; Nolan, Walkley, Wareham; James, Higgins, Crimmins, Randall, and Tompkins.

Umpires—Major Walker and Garrison Sergeant-Major H. Davenport.

The first half was greatly in favour of the Gloucesters, who, pressing from the start, and playing down hill, taxed the Sussex defence severely. After fifteen minutes' strenuous play Wareham sent up to Tompkins, who, beating Oakley, gave Higgins possession, and the latter scored, although Hobson made a fine effort to save. The Gloucesters put in another spurt, and, with fine passing by Walkley and Wareham, Crimmins got close in and added a second goal. The first half ended with the Gloucesters leading by 2-0. Resuming, the Gloucesters had not so much of the play, and the Sussex besieged them for ten minutes, the defence of Higgins and Clarke being severely tested, but they were very sound. After a break away the Gloucesters added two more goals, Higgins putting in the third from a fine pass by James and Crimmins, the fourth from a clever centre by Tompkins. The Royal Sussex, however, worked hard, and Maiden obtained a splendid goal, to which Jones added another from a neat forceful shot. The game ended with the Sussex attacking strongly, but they failed to reduce the lead. Result:—

Gloucesters	4
Royal Sussex	2

The Commander-in-Chief was to have presented the cup, but could not attend, and General Jendwine acted for him and congratulated the winners on their success, and both teams on their fine display. Throughout the Irish Command no less than 64 entries had been received for this valuable trophy.

DUBLIN DISTRICT COMPETITION.

An interesting game was played yesterday on the ground of the Royal Hibernians between The King's Own and The Prince of Wales's Own Volunteers. There was a fine attendance of both regiments, and, in addition, General Boyd and his staff. The teams were:—

The King's Own—Haben; Nevard and Lt. M. H. Cork; Wilson, Lt. Aslett, Sergeant Mustoe; Bell, Millings, Capt. Beaumont, Peskett, and Taylor.

Prince of Wales's Volunteers—Sergeant Crawford; C S. M. Ryan, Capt. Fay; Temple, Lt. Brotherton, Sergeant Blackmore; Finnerty, Lt. Jarmain, Cahill, Sergeant Bradley, Sergeant Reynolds.

Umpires—Captain Jas. S. M'Mahon and A. H. Sibbald.

Both regiments had gone through a competition in which sixteen battalions took part, but the King's Own had the advantage of having Lt. Aslett and M. H. Cork to represent them. In the first half Cork from a penalty corner scored after a minute's play, and shortly afterwards from a melee in the circle scored another. Lt. Jarmain getting away well nearly scored close in. The King's Own defence was splendid, and their passing to their forwards was very clever. Shortly before the interval Capt. Beaumont from fine passes by Peskett and Taylor added two more goals, and The King's Own led by 4-0.

The second half saw determined efforts on the part of the Prince of Wales's Volunteers, led by Lt. Jarmain, to score, but their opponents' defence was too good, and the forward line of the King's Own showed up to much advantage, their combination being excellent. Near the end Taylor scored a soft goal, and Capt. Beaumont another, leaving the King's Own deservedly winners by 6-0.

General Boyd presented the Cup to Lieutenant Cork and his team, and added a few words of kindly commendation for the excellent game they had played.

HUNTING.

WARD UNION STAGHOUNDS.

Mild weather conditions prevailed on Saturday, when a large crowd mustered at Palmerstown. "Jim" Brindley again carried the horn, and, despite the fact that he attains the fine age of 72 years this week, he showed that he has not lost any of his enthusiasm or skill in handling hounds. Mr. James Ennis was in charge, and the first stag was enlarged at Wyestown, but was shortly afterwards caught without showing any sport. The second was released on Miss Doyle's land at Palmerstown, and gave over two hours' of a very crooked but most enjoyable hunt. Hounds went over to Jordanstown, and, then bearing to the right, crossed out by the meeting place at Rapley and Robertstown, and on through Johnstown and Dunrea to Ashbourne. After hunting various small circles hounds continued on by Cookstown to Sutherland, and, then bearing to the right, went on by Hammondtown and Crickstown. With much difficulty the pack carried the line through the Bog of Curraha, and, leaving Nevinstown on to left, ran by Coolfore and down to Kilbrew, where they turned back again by Primatestown to Baltrasna, and the deer was safely caught near Kilmoon just as darkness was falling. Only three followers finished along with the huntsman and the whip.

BILLIARDS.

CHAMPIONS OPPOSED.

Newman and Smith, the present and past holders of the championship, respectively, met in the final heat of the London scratch tournament at Burroughes' Hall, London, yesterday, and a highly interesting match is promised. Yesterday afternoon's stage favoured Smith, who gained the lead by 167 points. Starting with a lucky break of 225, which contained two flukes, Smith added 70 and 201, while Newman's only breaks of note were 132, 95, and 78. Interval scores:—Smith, 663; Newman, 496.

A keen fight was seen at night, when Smith finished just in front. Both played fine billiards, and the lead several times changed hands. Closing scores:—Smith, 1,335; Newman, 1,312.

REECE'S STRONG OPENING.

Inman and Reece commenced a game of 8,000 up at the Y.M.C.A., Oldham, yesterday. Reece, who is in receipt of 500, opened in splendid fashion, and at the third visit recorded 224. This he further augmented with 165 and 65, while Inman replied with 167 and 53. Interval scores:—Reece, 1,125; Inman, 366.

M'CONACHY IN FORM.

At Thurston's Hall, Leicester square, London, yesterday afternoon, the New Zealand champion met Falkiner in an exhibition game of 16,000 up, receiving 2,000 start. Falkiner did little beyond one fine break of 339, but M'Conachy made runs of 73, 60, 77, 107, 85, and 80 (unfinished). Interval scores:—M'Conachy (receives 2,000), 2,583; Falkiner, 463.

During the evening's session, though McConachy played well, making breaks of 156, 129, and 144 (unfinished), Falkiner cut into his long lead with runs of 245, 167, and 201. Closing scores:—McConachy (rec. 2,000), 3,166; Falkiner, 1,227.

NEWMAN'S VICTORY.

Newman, after holding a long lead, on Saturday won this exhibition match against Inman, at Leicester square, London, by 1,283 points.

LONDON AMATEUR'S SUCCESS.

Graham, ended yesterday in a win for the former by 380 points. Marshall finished the first half on Saturday with a lead of 142, and yesterday he was always in possession of his advantage. During the afternoon's session he made breaks of 42, 50, 73, 53, 46, and 54 (unfinished), against Graham's 41, 64, and 42, and led by 299 at the interval. At night Marshall's breaks were 63 (full), 55, 89, 110, 40, and 54, and Graham's 46, 38, 59, and 36. Result:—Mr. Marshall, 2,000; Mr. A. E. Graham, 1,620.

BOXING.

BIG FEATHER-WEIGHT BOUT.

FRENCH RIVAL FOR JOHNNY KILBANE.

PARIS, Monday.

The French boxing public are now looking forward to a match between Eugene Criqui and Johnny Kilbane for the world's feather-weight championship. Criqui, it is reported, has announced his willingness to meet Kilbane in a championship match, either in the United States, Paris, London, or anywhere else. According to the "Auto," Criqui's manager, M. Endeline, has received an offer from Mr. A. F. Bettison for a match between Criqui and Joe Fox, the feather-weight champion of Great Britain and holder of the Lonsdale belt.

Ledoux states that he is prepared to defend his title of bantam-weight champion of Europe.

LONDON CONTESTS.

Two interesting matches filled the bill at the Hoxton Baths, London, yesterday. The first brought together the middle-weights, Ken McLaglan and Stanley Glen, of Bethnal Green. The former, a brother to Victor McLaglan, knocking his man out in the second round.

In the second, a heavy-weight bout, Jim Rideout (Ipswich) and Bill Mannering (Chatham) were opposed. Rideout, having all the best of the contest, won, Mannering retiring in the eleventh round.

CRICKET.

AUSTRALIAN XI.'S BIG SCORE.

The Australian XI. continued their first innings against The Rest of Australia at Sydney, and made a strong reply to The Rest's total of 393, being finally disposed of for 403. Armstrong played a characteristic innings of 77 not out, while Oldfield (63) and Ryder (62) were also prominent. Hornibrook captured four Australian wickets for 107, Kelleway two for 68, Scott two for 109, and O'Keefe one for 41. Ten runs in arrears, The Rest opened their second innings with confidence, and when play ceased for the day had made 179 for the loss of two wickets. O'Keefe and Love were not out for 87 and 48 respectively.

ELECTRIC WELDING.

USE OF THE PROCESS IN DUBLIN.

A paper on electric welding was read by Mr. G. Marshall Harriss at the monthly meeting of the Institution of Civil Engineers of Ireland, at 35 Dawson street, Dublin, last evening.

Welding by electricity, Mr. Harriss said, was known from the time when metal was first fused by lightning, but no practical use was made of the knowledge until quite recently. Electric welding had now become such an important thing that no mechanical workshop could be considered complete without an electric welding plant. The earlier form was welding by resistance, which was introduced by Elihu Thompson.

It was only recently that arc welding came into use, and now welding was done with both the carbon arc and the metallic arc. In the metallic arc the metal was deposited straight from the electrode to build up the weld. During the war great developments were made.

This system of electric welding was introduced into the Dublin Tramway Company's works in December, 1919, and it was no exaggeration to say that but for its use the cars could not have been kept on the streets, because it was almost impossible during the war to get steel castings. Now, however, the castings, which in former days were thrown away, were repaired by the electrical process. This resulted in a great saving.

A cordial vote of thanks was returned to Mr. Harriss for his paper. Mr. J. H. Hargrave, President, occupied the chair.

AROUND DUBLIN PLAYHOUSES.

THIS WEEK'S BILLS.

"A SAFETY MATCH" AT THE GAIETY.

It does not always follow that a novelist effectively adapts his own work for dramatic purposes. He often obtrudes incidents which could be wisely ignored, and the natural inclination is frequently to have too much talk at the expense of action. While, generally speaking, Ian Hay, in the adaptation of his novel, "A Safety Match," has performed his task satisfactorily, sometimes he allows the dialogue to run riot. This is especially noticeable in the first act, in which he depicts the struggles of a clergyman's family, a fair sample of the new poor. Subsequently the action is expedited, and the play gains as a result. The characters, which number twenty-eight, are generally interesting types, especially the precocious youngsters of the Rev. Brian Vereker, but the two outstanding persons are Daphne Vereker, a delightful type of little mother, and Sir John Carr, an industrial magnate, a hard man in business.

Around this couple the play mostly revolves, and there are some strong situations which develop dramatically. The play gave much pleasure to a large audience last evening, and was well received. The honours of the performance went to Miss Cathleen MacCarthy, who has already won distinction by her clever work in "Peg o' My Heart." Her personation of Daphne was marked by much dramatic skill, and she made the most of a difficult part. As Sir John, Mr. Winnington Barnes, though suffering from a cold, was impressive, and added greatly to the strength of the cast. Miss Marjorie Kerr, in the impish rôle of Veronica Vereker, was thoroughly effective, and most of the other parts were capably filled.

THEATRE ROYAL.

A programme of outstanding merit is this week being laid before the patrons of the Theatre Royal, and it was received last evening with cordial enthusiasm. Pride of place will be accorded to Lucille Benstead, an Australian prima donna, whose first appearance it is in Dublin. She is a gifted vocalist, and her rendering of "Some day you will miss me," a Hawaiian melody, and other numbers displayed her fine qualities. She had a reception which ought to be very gratifying to her. Tex McLeod tells pointed stories while manipulating the lasso and performing some very agile skipping. Jay Whidden, a great master of the violin, afforded much pleasure. He is as good an artist at the piano as at the violin. Nolan and Holt are with us once again, and their songs and other "business" stamp them as excellent entertainers. Ethel Loftus is a breezy character comedienne, and her work created much enthusiasm in her favour. The Jerry Builders are a company of comic knock-about artists, whose performance, well known to Dublin audiences already, needs no fresh praise. Very excellent in their way were the Lowell Trio, whose balancing, juggling, comedy, and music made very good fun indeed. The Flying Potters do some sensational things on the trapeze, and are well worth seeing.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.

"The Lord Mayor," a three-act comedy, by Edward McNulty, was performed at the Queen's Theatre last night by the Ballykinlar Players. The presentation is announced as "the first performance outside barbed wire." There were many elements of novelty in the performance, not the least among them being that all the female parts had necessarily to be taken by members of the sterner sex, and, while wigs, powder, and paint made them a very presentable couple, as hostess at the Mansion House and her daughter, no device known to stagecraft could sufficiently soften the vocal chords of Messrs. Michael Leary and Dick Saunders, who contributed not a small share to the merriment of a quaint performance. Indeed, the very diverting comedy has seldom been presented under more mirth-provoking circumstances. The Gaffney of Mr. "Jimmie" Mulkerns, described as "the Rajah of Frongoch," was a very clever study, while Mr. Kit Mullen, as the Lord Mayor-elect, made the most of an amusing part. Mr. "Paddy" Byrne, as Kelly, clerk to Gaffney, was also very good, while the two Mansion House charwomen were excellently impersonated by Messrs. Peter Mulvey and Sean Connolly. The performance will be repeated twice nightly during the week, at 6.45 and 9.0 p.m.

EMPIRE THEATRE.

The outstanding feature of the entertainment at the Empire Theatre last night was the sketch entitled "The Man in the Street." The principal character is Jabez Gover, a street musician, who is capably represented by Ashley James. Gover's performance in a thoroughfare at Philip Adair's studio disturbs that gentleman at his work, and Gover is ordered away, but is recalled and invited to sit in the studio for the purpose of having a picture of himself painted. In the chair he gives a humorous account of his experience in the streets, and of the people that he met from time to time. It is a very enjoyable little sketch, and a fairly full house thoroughly appreciated it. The other artists included Cissie Nadine, comedienne, and Mark Stewart. They were both well received, the latter being encored. Doran and Rivkin introduced novel dances, which involved some acrobatic skill, and delighted the audience. Carr and Co. were entertaining in their electrical act. The Four Clovelly Girls, expert jugglers; Tabbie Bedstead and Bex and Ross, vocalists, rendered much appreciated help to carry the entertainment to a successful close.

TIVOLI THEATRE.

An attractive variety programme, strengthened by the appearance of artists who contributed to the gaiety of the Queen's Theatre pantomime, was presented in the Tivoli Theatre last night. The principal turn was that of the Four Christies, whose display, described as "a classical pourtrayal of athletic splendour, grace, and strength," deserved the applause with which it was received. Another item of more than ordinary merit was the entertainment given by Keyes and Kodey, "the American and the other Fellow." Jack Hana and Irene Marcel displayed their abilities as dancers and vocalists, and Dolly Dennis and Walter Rover gave a fine display of dancing. Will Bell, comedian and dancer, amused the audiences, and Michael Farrar was very successful as a ventriloquist. Bert Warrington gave interesting illustrations of muscular movements.

CINEMA REALISM.

THE ALLENBY-LAWRENCE TRAVELOGUE.

Having aroused additional interest over a proposed performance for school children, the Lowell Thomas Travelogue, "With Allenby in Palestine and Lawrence in Arabia," was submitted to a large audience at the Theatre Royal, Dublin, yesterday afternoon. It was the first of a series of a dozen matinées, and, if the patronage accorded to these wonderful pictures be commensurate with their merit, there should not be a vacant seat any afternoon.

The pictures are the last word in motion and colour, and, apart from the noble achievements which they record, are an educational asset of rare value. One sees Eastern life in all its phases, and becomes familiar with places famous in Scripture and renowned in history. From a dizzy height in a British battleplane one looks down on the Mount of Olives, Gethsemane, and the Holy Sepulchre; from a quiet grove the Turks may be seen flying from Beersheeba, the ancient home of Abraham. Many other incidents of the campaign can be clearly followed.

It would be difficult to convey the impressions which these remarkable films and slides leave on the mind. They appeal to the imagination in a way which the written page could never do; they provide a feast of colour and adventure which charm the eye and stimulate the mind. To follow General Allenby and his modern crusaders from the opening of the campaign until the capture of Jerusalem is an experience which no one should miss.

It brings with it the privilege of accompanying a gallant officer, "Shereef" Lawrence, on his famous mission in Arabia. Proceeding down the Nile into the heart of Africa, one follows Kitchener's trail across the Nubian Desert and encounters on the way a sand cyclone. Crossing the Red Sea on a tramp steamer, Jedda, the Liverpool of Holy Arabia, is reached, and then one is introduced to the "Shereef" and a gathering of Bedouins.

ACROSS THE HILLS.

Among other adventures is a trip by aeroplane across the Judean Hills and over the Red Sea, and a battle in the air over the hills of Moab. The modern crusaders are seen sweeping back the Turks from Haifa, Acre, Tyre, and Sidon, and freeing Nazareth, Tiberias, and all Galilee.

The last scenes depict Allenby and Lawrence closing in on Damascus, the capture of Aleppo, and the final downfall of the Ottoman Empire.

The pictures occupy about two hours in exhibition, but the time flies swiftly, and the end comes too quickly. The story of this glorious adventure is heard from the lips of Mr. Lowell Thomas, to whom the world is indebted for having it truthfully recorded with the aid of the infallible camera. If America did not assist in the campaign with men and munitions, it at least provided the camera and the photographer.

Mr. Thomas's excuse for telling us the tale through the mouth of an American is that we are too modest to tell it ourselves. At all events, he does it justice.

SECOND EMPIRE.

NAPOLEON'S FAITH IN HIS STAR.

"Napoleon III., the Empress Eugénie, and the Second Empire" was the title of the third of the series of the Lady Ardilaun lectures on French history, which was delivered by Principal Grant Robertson, of Birmingham University, in the Alexandra College, Dublin, yesterday evening.

There was a large attendance. The Bishop of Meath, who presided, said that he wished to express his appreciation of Alexandra College, which, true to its tradition, remained unselfish in extending its advantages to the public. They had had the privilege of listening to the Hermione lectures, the Margaret Stokes lectures, and last, but not least, the Lady Ardilaun lectures. The whole spirit of Alexandra College was not to take, but to give, and it made use for others of what it required for itself. It stood as a standard of unselfish life.

Principal Robertson, in his lecture, reviewed French history leading up to the second Empire, which, he said, had only this in common with the Monarchy before the Revolution—that it came to a tragic end, and, in many ways, an unexpected end. He did not suppose that even in that extraordinary avenue of French history there was any episode more perplexing, and at the same time more romantic and more tragic, than these 20 years of a gigantic Imperial period. The conclusion that was left upon one's mind by the state of the second Empire was that the ease with which it was established was as astonishing as the ease with which it disappeared. It would be his task in that and the following lecture to discover how far the Emperor Napoleon III. and the Empress Eugénie were really responsible, either by their character, policy, or acts, for bringing down the Empire for which they stood, and which was all in all to them.

The lecturer presented his audience with a vision of Napoleon III. during his incarceration in the fortress of Ham, in Picardy, writing books, and saying—"When you are tired of your Monarchy and want to open a new era for France, I am the man." Napoleon believed in his star, and he believed in destiny. Napoleon said—"I put more faith in my star and in my destiny than in any logic. I wait. I bide my time."

THE DUMMY.

In 1846, in order to shape this destiny, Napoleon III. thought that he had better get out of the fortress. He put on whatever corresponded then to corduroy trousers, put a clay pipe in his mouth, and an old cap on his head, and slipped out of the prison—he was going to get a wheelbarrow. (Laughter.) His jailers used to go twice a day to his prison house to see if he was there. He was there, or a dummy rather was there, and they did not discover for 48 hours that the dummy was a dummy, and then Napoleon was in a ship, going across the Channel to England. He stayed there until 1848, when he was elected President of the Republic by an enormous majority.

When Napoleon went to France to take office as President, the Constitution provided that he should take an oath of allegiance to the French Republic. The oath was administered to him, and he took it in the presence of the deputies and officials of France. Having taken the oath, he added some general remarks of his own, to the effect that nothing pleased him so much as an allegiance to it.

One morning, December 2, 1852, the reform of the Constitution was in the hands of the soldiers. Out came a proclamation of the revision of the Constitution. There was fighting in France. Napoleon was master, and virtually wrote out a fresh Constitution which left him with supreme power. The Empire was proclaimed, and he was now Napoleon, the Emperor of France,

Napoleon married Eugénie, and she stepped into French history in 1853. She was half Scottish in origin, and was for twenty years, perhaps, the best known woman, in a way, in Europe. She could not alter a curl without having curls altered all over Europe. One thing that agitated the feminine mind of Europe in January was, "What was the Empress Eugénie going to wear on March 1?" The most beautiful woman, probably in all Europe, saw France go through the war, and when the Emperor was a prisoner the Empress was a refugee in England.

Principal Robertson will continue the story of Napoleon III., the Empress Eugénie, and the Second Empire in the fourth and concluding lecture, which he will deliver in the College at 4 o'clock this evening.

The lectures are illustrated by lime-light photographs.

COUNTY COUNCILS.

ANNUAL MEETING POSTPONED

In consequence of the railway strike only sixteen members attended the annual meeting of the Irish County Councils' General Council in Dublin yesterday.

A letter was read from the Lord Mayor of Cork suggesting that the meeting should be postponed until a date that coincided with the Sinn Fein Ard Fheis. On the motion of Mr. P. T. Daly, seconded by Alderman Murphy, it was resolved to adjourn the meeting in accordance with this suggestion. Some formal business, however, was transacted.

On the motion of Mr O'Flynn (Limerick), seconded by Mr. J. T. Magee (Louth), Alderman Cosgrave, M.P., was re-elected chairman for the ensuing year, and Mr. James MacNeill was re-elected vice-chairman.

A DOCTOR'S MOTOR CAR.

Yesterday George McGarry and John Lacey were charged in Dublin Police Court with having illegally in their possession a motor car, the property of Dr. Davies, of 7 Clare street. The doctor had left the car outside his own house shortly before 7 o'clock on the previous evening, and the next place he saw it was in Store street Police Station. A witness named Preston stated that he had been left by the defendants in charge of a motor car outside a house in Purdon street while they went for a drink. Constable Teeling suspected the men when they returned and had them arrested. They were remanded, and the constable was highly commended.

PROVISIONS.

LIVERPOOL, Monday.—BACON — Advices from America were of a somewhat less encouraging character, but imports registered here were on a very small scale, which had a counteracting influence, and the generally firm tone was again apparent for American selections of bacon. Long clears scarce, and held for more money at 98/- to 102/-, with Wiltshires and Cumberlands fairly active and later the turn dearer at 104/- to 110/- per cwt, while clear bellies should attract more attention at the relatively low price quoted for British cured bacon, which has militated against its sale, being now less plentiful. HAMS firm, and again sparingly offered at late rates, with a fair inquiry. Shoulders nominal owing to lack of supplies. Canadian Wiltshires moved moderately at late rates. Irish and Continental remained quietly steady. LARD on the spot was in fair request at recent currencies, the stocks of prime steam being in small compass. CHEESE continued firm and fairly active, especially coloured, which was in limited offering. BUTTER meets little inquiry, and sellers easy to approach though prices generally repeated. EGGS remain very firm on scarcity, with Irish 32/- to 33/-, and Egyptian 13/9 to 14/6 per 120.

COTTON CAKES—Egyptian remain scarce on spot, to-day's nearest value being £8 12/6 to £8 15/- per ton ex quay, while afloat parcels meet a good inquiry at £8 7/6 to £8 10/- per ton ex ship terms, with English makes unchanged at £9 to £9 5/- per ton. Extracted Palm Kernel Meal—The low price of £5 10/- to £6 per ton continues to attract buyers, and there is a good consumption of produce for prompt delivery. Rice Meal—Best quality garden Siam finds a ready sale at £5 10/- per ton, and at this figure it is undoubtedly of exceptional value. White African maize meal is relatively a cheap food at £7 15/- ex ship, or £8 5/- per ton ex store. Sugar Foods—Hughes' patent Molascuit and Molassine Meal move off steadily at last week's quotations. Best cane cattle feeding treacle is procurable at rather less money, by reason of some forced sales, and £6 per ton would now be accepted for prompt buyers.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

RATHGAR CONGREGATION.

The congregation of Christ Church, Rathgar, held its annual meeting on Friday last. The Rev. J. J. Macaulay, B.A., presided. After tea, the report of the session for 1921 was submitted by Mr. A. Gray. Attention was called to the reports of the various congregational agencies, which showed unabated interest on the part of the workers and continued prosperity. Special mention was made of the great loss that the congregation had sustained by the death of Mr. A. E. Brunton. The loss sustained by the removal to the North of Mr. W. J. Cairns, convener of the Finance Committee, and of Mr. J. S. Cunningham, scoutmaster, was also deeply regretted.

The report of the Committee was submitted by the Hon. Treasurer, Mr. D. W. Mitchell. The financial statement showed increased receipts under almost every head. The Sabbath collections and contributions to stipend conjointly had increased by £126 to £1,549; the Assembly's missions by £65 to £690; the Sustentation Fund by £12 to £249; and £129 had been contributed to the Dublin hospitals. The total amount contributed in 1921 was £3,147.

The motion for the adoption of the reports was seconded by Mr. J. A. Munro, and supported by the Rev. W. Milburn, C.F., and passed.

An excellent programme of music by the choir, under the leadership of Mr. V. J. Fielding, greatly added to the evening's enjoyment. To Miss Pearl McConkey, for her fine rendering of "Swing low, sweet chariot" (Burleigh), "Where the bee sucks" (Sullivan), and the "Hindoo song" (Bemberg), with 'cello obligato by Mrs. Maxwell, special thanks were accorded.

POLISH PROBLEMS.

DIFFICULTIES AHEAD.

What is meant by the problem of Poland? asked Dr. Grant Robertson, C.V.O., in the course of a lecture on the subject of "Poland," in the Molesworth Hall, Dublin, last night. Poland, he said, disappeared off the map of Europe in 1796 as an independent State, when it was partitioned into three parts by Russia, Austria, and Prussia, and so remained until 1918. The problem was—If they wished to restore Poland, for what reason, and what kind of Poland were they going to produce. It was easy to draw lines upon a map, and equally easy to wipe them out. That was not making a State. What they wanted to see was, if they were wrong, what were they to put in its place. The disappearance of Poland meant the killing of a nation with a long history behind it. And until Poland was restored there would be no peace or quietness in Central Europe.

Referring to the settlement effected by the League of Nations, the lecturer remarked that they were restoring a nation under 20th century conditions. The Poles had decided to become a Republic, democratically governed. What more was wanted? In the first place, in a modern State, if they wanted to be efficient they must pay attention to the education of trade experts. There were no means known to history by which nations of inferior brain capacity or training who did not work as hard as other nations could hope to hold their own, much less beat nations, with better brains and better trained brains. This was where the Poles failed. They were not lacking in patriotism; but trained brains were essential to success.

His advice was, in regard to the making of States, that they should put their money, or a considerable part of it, into their Universities. The Universities informed and trained brains. The great difficulty about the Polish State was that they had not got the trained brains which agriculture, as well as industry, required. The Poles would also find that self-government took a long time to learn.

A vote of thanks to the lecturer brought the proceedings to a close.

GLASGOW MURDER.

EX-SOLDIER'S DREADFUL CRIME.

Another shocking murder, the second within twelve hours, occurred in Glasgow yesterday, when a young married woman had her throat cut by her husband, an ex-Gordon Highlander, who was discharged from a military hospital last week.

The crime occurred at the house of the husband's mother, in Paterson street, where he was staying, having no home.

His wife called yesterday morning, and, it is stated, threatened to leave him. While the mother was preparing breakfast for the couple, the man stopped over his wife, and nearly severed her head with a razor. He walked out of the house, followed by the mother, who raised the alarm. Seeing blood on his coat the neighbours stopped him. Quietly returning home, he waited for the police, who detained him.

A meeting of the Rathmines Literary and Debating Society will be held to-night at 8. A paper on "Civilisation" will be read by Mr. E. E. Malone.

NEW CAREERS
TO SUIT THE TIMES.

When contemplating the future of a son, or a change for yourself if present occupation is not all it might be, consider farming.

There is more in it than most people suppose. In fact, it is not claiming too much to say that it is a fascinating subject, well worth studying and understanding. There is, for instance, as much incentive, as much absorbing interest, and as much scope and reward for ability, in developing and working a commercial orchard, a cattle ranch, or a so-called "mixed" farm, as will be found in the hitherto more fashionable professions.

If this be doubted, write for the illustrated publication of two hundred and fifty pages, which describes some fifteen branches of farming in the Union of South Africa. There is no charge, nor attempt to boom or sell anything. Difficulties and risks are as frankly discussed as are the attractions of the life. The whole aim is to meet the requirements of the times, to assist those who are looking for new careers, by placing before them the pros and cons, so that they may have adequate evidence on which to judge whether farming in the Union of South Africa is likely to suit them.

Lack of farming experience need not deter. Practical training can be obtained in South Africa, on a Government farm at a cost of £50 a year for board, residence and tuition, or sometimes free as the working guest of an established farmer. But such training can be of use only to those who have the capital to acquire and work land. The minimum required is about £2,000.

Full particulars should in the first instance be obtained from the Office of the High Commissioner for the Union of South Africa, Trafalgar Square, London, W.C.2. (104)

BISHOP HEASLETT IN DUBLIN.

The Right Rev. S. Heaslett, Bishop of South Tokyo, Japan, who will address meetings in the Gregg Hall on Thursday, at 3 and 8 p.m., is the third Irish C.M.S. missionary elevated to the episcopate in less than three years. Going out to Japan in the year 1900, the Rev. S. Heaslett was attached to the C.M.S. Divinity College in Osaka, and later had amongst his duties the spiritual care of the Europeans in the Port of Nagasaki. In 1917, at the request of the British Consul in Tokyo, he proceeded with Chinese labour coolies to France, remaining with them till 1919, first as a subaltern, and then as Acting Captain and O.C. of a company at the Headquarters of Tank Corps. Returning to Japan, he again took up the work of training Japanese evangelists and clergy, and has remained in this position until the present time. He was consecrated in Westminster Abbey on St. Paul's Day, January 25th last.

A Way Out.

Irish affairs are once again on the lip of the melting-pot. Mr. Griffith and Mr. Collins had two conferences with Mr. Lloyd George in London yesterday, and the chief subject of their talk was the Northern boundaries. Yet, although all the protagonists have carried this question to London, it never can be settled there. Indeed, the longer it is discussed in London, the more remote will the prospects of Irish peace become. It is clear that Mr. Collins and Sir James Craig are still at arms' length. The former holds to his wide interpretation of Article 12 of the Treaty. Sir James Craig, after conference with his Cabinet, has refused to accept any responsibility for the Treaty. He will not consent to any alteration of the boundary "except by mutual agreement"; and, if such agreement cannot be reached, he will take his stand behind the barriers of the Government of Ireland Act. In "mutual agreement," therefore, lies the only hope of solution; and, if that hope is to be kept alive, Mr. Collins and Sir James Craig must decide to put an immediate estoppal on untoward developments in London. We cannot contemplate without the gravest alarm the possible—even probable—result of debates in the Imperial Parliament on the boundaries dispute in its most naked and most rigid form.

If irreparable mischief is not to be done, the discussion of the boundaries dispute must be postponed. Last week Mr. Collins proposed a convention of the Parliamentary representatives of the whole of Ireland which would "adopt a policy and frame a Constitution for our common country." In this offer we see a way of escape from imminent danger. Sir James Craig has not rejected it; but he cannot accept it in its present form. The Northern State will have nothing to say to any Constitution which does not lie within the framework of the British Empire. At this moment Mr. Collins can furnish no guarantee that his proposed convention would ratify an Imperial Constitution. The Provisional Government holds its precarious sway by a very small majority of Dail Eireann. Until it can prove that it is broad-based upon the people's will it has no real title to make a great overture of unity to the North. The fact that Sir James Craig has not rejected Mr. Collins's offer allows us to hope that he is waiting for an amended version of it. Will the Provisional Government undertake to go immediately to the country, and, if it comes back with a satisfactory majority of Free State members, to renew the proposal of an All-Ireland convention? Will it invite the Northern members to enter such a convention without prejudice; and will Sir James Craig and Mr. Collins agree, in the meanwhile, to side-track the whole question of the Ulster boundaries?

We venture to think that Sir James Craig would accept such an offer; for it would commit him to nothing save a gesture of good-will. On the other hand, his acceptance would avert a serious peril and would put the boundaries problem in its proper place—not as an isolated crux, but as part of the whole problem of Irish unity. In any case, an early general election is an urgent necessity for the Provisional Government. It is not gaining ground, and the weaknesses of its ambiguous and anomalous position afford many openings for attack. We announce to-day that the Government has asked the Southern Judiciary to postpone the March Assizes. If this fact forecasts an appeal to the country within the next four weeks, every friend of peace will be thankful. The Government, having arranged a temporary settlement of the railway trouble and having published a brief and clear statement of general policy, may seek the people's confidence at the polls with excellent prospects of success. We believe that a very large majority of Southern Irishmen share the views which Lord Powerscourt expresses in our columns to-day. They want to help the Provisional Government and they are waiting for a chance to help it. That chance the Government itself must supply, and the sooner the better. It will be a calamity, however, if the boundaries dispute is not kept out of the way until the main issue has been decided. Mr. Collins must revise and renew his offer to Sir James Craig.

Pope Pius XI.

After many abortive ballots a new Pope has been elected. Yesterday Cardinal Ratti, Archbishop of Milan, and the junior of the Cardinal priests, of whom Cardinal Logue is the doyen, was raised to the Holy See, and gave his blessing to the huge crowd in the Piazza di San Pietro. Pope Pius XI. is a man of profound learning. He is reputed to have a Mezzofantian knowledge of languages; he has travelled extensively, and has occupied his rare periods of leisure in Alpine climbing. How he stands in relation to the Roman question is uncertain; his attitude will not become clear until he appoints his Secretary of State. The mere fact that he was made a Cardinal only last year by the late Pope suggests that his policy, broadly, will correspond with the policy of Benedict XV. This belief is strengthened by the rumour, which has been current for some weeks past, that he was recommended for the Papacy in his predecessor's will. The length of the Conclave indicates clearly that neither the Vatican nor the Quirinal party was strong enough to secure the election of its candidate, and that the choice of Cardinal Ratti is in the nature of a compromise. Be that as it may, he is a man of great strength of character, and is not likely to become a mere figurehead under the influence of a Gasparri or a Merry del Val. He went as Nuncio to Poland in 1918, and his work there, as well as afterwards in Upper Silesia, proves that he possesses not only admirable tact, but also striking personality. For some years he was Prefect of the Vatican Library. Consequently, he probably has an intimate acquaintance with the views of the College of Cardinals, and will be able to take up the work of Benedict XV. with the minimum of friction.

Railway Policy.

The news that the Midland and the London and North-Western Railway Companies of England are contemplating amalgamation, and that Euston will be the headquarters of the new system, provides a useful object-lesson for Ireland. Hitherto these two great companies have worked in opposition, and each in its way has excelled. Every Irishman who has visited England has revelled in the luxury of the Holyhead-Euston "run," while the comfort of the Midland route is hardly surpassed in Europe. That two such vast concerns should wish to run in double harness is a sign of the times. What a different condition of affairs we find in Southern Ireland! South of Dublin, as a correspondent told us yesterday, there are fifteen separate railway companies, working a total length of 1,713¼ miles. The Great Southern and Western Company controls 1,148 miles, with the result that the remaining 565¼ miles are divided among no fewer than fourteen companies. Fourteen companies require fourteen managers and fourteen sets of directors, whereas the new English group, presumably, will have one general manager and one directors' board. Comment is hardly necessary. Has not the time come for a new railway policy in Ireland? Nothing could be more absurd than the present system, which is not the least important cause of our endless railway strikes.

The Che-Ka.

Anxiety has been caused in Moscow by recent disturbances among the workers of that city. Thousands of men and women from the factories were driven to fury by the tyranny of the Che-Ka Organisation, and marched through the streets, shouting for the abolition of the Soviet and the Che-Ka murder gang. That is what the Che-Ka really is—a secret organisation which deals out torture and sudden death to any persons whom the Soviet may consider to be undesirable. The workers soon were dispersed by Red Guards; but the Che-Ka has been disbanded officially. This action is at once a sop to the workers and a manœuvre to lessen prejudice against Russia in Europe. Possibly, although the organisation, which has been for so long the terror of all anti-Soviet hearts, is abolished officially, it will continue actually as a department of the Commissariat for Internal Affairs. The old Secret Political Police existed as such a special department. If the abolition is genuine, the Soviet has taken a long step forward on the road to political security; but the tricks of the Bolsheviks are so notorious that it would be unwise prematurely to express an opinion.

A Cry from the West.

The reports of conditions in the islands off the coast of Connemara are extremely disquieting. Whole families are starving. There is a widespread lack of clothing and comforts, and the people have no seed for the spring sowing. Yesterday, Mr. Hogan, the Minister of Agriculture in the Provisional Government, received a deputation which brought this wretched condition of affairs before his notice. He promised to send two inspectors at once to the spot in order to obtain an accurate survey of the situation, and said that steps would be taken immediately to relieve the islanders' distress. Temporary relief, apparently, will not be of much avail. The poverty of the islands is so terrible that migration to some of the richer parts of the country seems to be imperative. Evidently Mr. Hogan has some such scheme in view, and he will make an early statement of the plans which he proposes to put into operation. There is plenty of food in Ireland for everybody, and the fact that little children are dying of hunger in Connemara is a disgrace to our country's good name.

COURT AND PERSONAL.

The Earl of Dunraven, who has been staying at Adare Manor for the past six weeks, leaves this week for London for the opening of Parliament, after which he will go to the South of France for a few weeks. The Duke and Duchess of Westminster are laid up at Eaton Hall with influenza. Lord Decies returned to London yesterday from Dublin. His nephew, Lord Edward Hay, who is staying on the Riviera, has postponed his return to England until the end of the month. The Hon. Mrs. Nigel Baring, who has been staying in Dublin for the past six weeks, left yesterday for London en route for St. Moritz.

To-day is the seventieth birthday of the Earl of Erroll, who is Lord High Constable of Scotland—a post which confers on him a precedence higher than that of all peers and holders of other hereditary titles, members of the Royal Family only excepted. Lord Erroll, who succeeded his father as nineteenth Earl in 1891, has had a distinguished military career. He was A.A.G. to the Cavalry Division in South Africa in 1900-1, and was A.D.C. to Field Marshal Viscount Wolseley. He married an Irish lady, the daughter of the late Mr. Edmund L'Estrange of Tynte Lodge, Co. Leitrim, and the eldest of their three sons, who bears the courtesy title of Lord Kilmarnock, is in the Diplomatic Service and is a Councillor of Embassy.

* * *

The Countess of Rocksavage, who has been paying some visits, has returned to the Villa Caldana, Cannes, where the Earl of Rocksavage, who appears to have forsaken the polo field for the tennis court, has been playing quite brilliantly in several of the recent tennis tournaments. Some excellent polo has been witnessed at Cannes lately, especially a match in which Colonel George Philippi, Major Hurndall, Captain MacIntyre and Major Longworth defeated by seven goals to two Captain James, Captain Gill, the Hon. Leslie Melville and Captain Smart.

* * *

Though Hyères is less crowded than many of the popular French resorts, a good many English and Irish are to be found among the visitors, who include Brigadier-General and Mrs. A. G. Duff, Sir John and Lady Barton, Lady Simon, Sir Arthur and Lady Fell, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dease, Lady Scotter, Brigadier-General and Mrs. Hickman, Miss Hickman, Lady Mayo Robson, Mr. and Mrs. T. Falls, Miss Massy Westropp, Mr. and Mrs. Capel Cure.

* * *

An engagement is announced between George Fothergill Ellenberger, M.C., 2nd Bn. The King's Own Yorkshire Light Infantry, only son of the late George Ellenberger, Esq., and of Mrs. Ellenberger, of 74 Mayo road, Nottingham, and Ethel Sylvia Elizabeth, only daughter of Allan Swan, Esq., and Mrs. Swan, of Redbarns House, Dundalk.

* * *

The engagement is announced between Mr. H. A. R. Puttee, The Bedfordshire and Hertfordshire Regiment, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Puttee, of Southall, Middlesex, and Geraldine Patricia, youngest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Flanagan, Weston House, Sligo.

AUCTION BRIDGE.

SUPPORTING THE PARTNER.

A correspondent asks what is the minimum strength upon which the dealer or second in hand should make an original suit call and the number of tricks the partner should hold to support the bid. The first part of this question was answered in a previous article; and, as regards raising on the first round, the partner should not do so, holding only two small cards of the suit called, but with strong outside cards he can branch off into another suit, or no trumps. The idea is that the partner cannot help the declarer in his suit, but, by naming another, gives the latter the opportunity of pursuing the original declaration, or of supporting, if more advisable, the denying bid.

It is safe to increase the contract on the first round holding two sure tricks and three small cards of the partner's suit, or two tricks and two trumps, one of the latter being the queen, or higher.

There are other points to be taken into account when considering the advisability of backing up one's partner, such as short off suits with length in that called by the partner, but all these can only be learned by experience.

With two sure tricks and only two small trumps, it would be correct to raise on the second round. The case is then different, as the declarer has advanced the bid on his own account, and must have a strong hand. The partner's support would not then be misleading, as the declarer would deduce that at the most there were two tricks in the hand.

Considerable judgment is necessary in raising the bid from two to three. Of course, the state of the rubber must always be a factor in calling, but players often take two great risks at this stage of the bidding, and many losses at Bridge are attributed to too optimistic declarations.

A bid of two is not often doubled, and when the contract fails by one or two tricks no great harm is done; but the case is quite different when the contract is raised to three on a doubtful hand, as this bid is frequently doubled.

The writer, having now completed this series of articles, hopes they may have been of some help to beginners at Auction Bridge.

ROYAL DUBLIN SOCIETY.

THE CATTERALL QUARTET.

Again the Catterall Quartet secured a triumph at the Royal Dublin Society; before four o'clock the theatre was crowded with enthusiastic music-lovers. The performance yesterday was very fine, though the effect it produced on us was not so overwhelming as the last one the great quartet gave us. Perhaps the reason for this was that there was no Beethoven in the programme. It is remarkable how we missed Beethoven yesterday; even after the divine Peter Pan of music, Mozart, and that Undine spirit, Debussy, we felt a lack of something stern and Olympian. We kept hearing a voice within us saying: "Give me one of the Rasoumoffsky quartets, or even some Brahms if I am to go away satisfied from this banquet of the gods."

Mr. Catterall is a great Mozart player—he seemed to inspire his colleagues with his boyish glee as he warbled the scales and trills of the first movement of the D minor quartet. How the great man would have chuckled with joy at hearing that allegro moderato played with that crisp "spiccato" which Mr. Catterall displays—how he would grumble at hearing again Schuppanzigh playing on his unwieldy old bow.

* * * * *

We never remember having enjoyed the andante more than yesterday, and it would be impossible to conceive a more perfect ensemble between players. The two violins seemed exactly to balance one another in tone, and the viola player with his round volume of tone sustained them. The menuetto, always a delight in Mozart, was the most suggestive of the movements. The finale, with its theme and variations, reminded us of the piano and violin sonatas of Mozart: in spite of the sparkling passages it is the least interesting of the movements, and the players certainly seemed to agree with this, for they showed less vitality than in the beautiful ensemble of the earlier movements.

Schubert was unrivalled as a composer of melodies; in each one of his works we find enough tunes to base several others. Yet he seems to lack the power of developing these beautiful thoughts. Most composers suffered agonies trying to evolve their inspirations and educate them. Divine melodies came to Schubert as he sat in restaurants, or as he walked the country fields near Vienna. The A minor quartet opens with one of those beautiful phrases, but before the long movement ends we are tired of that tune's incessant repetition in minor, then major. Also, we are wearied by Schubert's lack of the sense of climax—all the movements end abruptly like the short chords at the end of Viennese dances. The andante yesterday was more beautiful than usual, because Mr. Catterall resisted the temptation to take it at a slow tempo and make it sentimental.

The most interesting movement of the quartet is the menuetto allegretto, with its weird phantasy. How interesting to compare this minuet which starts from its low bass note on the 'cello, with the gay dance of Mozart. In Schubert's piece we hear behind the curtseying bepowdered dancers the suggestion of the Hungarian gypsy rhythms. Already our thoughts wander ahead and look out for Dvorak and Brahms. The whole movement with its eerie lightness seemed an unearthly dance of goblins.

* * * * *

We must feel grateful to Mr. Catterall and his colleagues for playing the beautiful early Debussy work, which is too seldom heard here. In this quartet we have a key to all Debussy—all that sense of the coloured vibrations of the atmosphere—all that sense of mystery, that obsession of the infinite mobility of light that is contained in the word "impressionism." Debussy tries to evoke rather than describe, rather to develop to the utmost our powers of senibility. When this work was written Debussy was still under the influence of Moussorgsky. He was attracted by the curious modulation of the Russian popular tunes. We notice the influence of Boris Godounov in the beautiful andantino, with its desolate sadness that suggests the plains of Siberia.

In the second movement, with its delightful rhythmic effects, we notice traces of Russian influence—or, perhaps, it is the Spanish influence which is so akin to Russian, for Debussy was a great admirer of Spanish music. The first movement was the least successful movement yesterday, because the speed was too quick. It is marked très décidé, and the principal subject suggests dignity. The second movement was delightfully played; the pizzicati were quite uncannily played in their brilliance against the droning bas. Mr. Catterall by his romantic phrasing of the subject made the third movement very poetical. The finale lost some of its impressive rhythm and vigour because it was taken too fast. But, at any rate, it did not lose its exhilarating quality.

CHEAPER POSTAGE.

BELFAST BUSINESS MEN'S DEMAND.

The Belfast Chamber of Trade has decided to join in a demand for a reduction of the postal rates.

The matter was considered yesterday at a meeting of the Executive Committee, when a letter was read from the General Secretary of the National Chamber pointing out that it was reported that the Post Office Estimates for the coming financial year (1922-23), made up on the basis of the present postal charges, would show a prospective surplus of approximately £8,000,000. The Postmaster-General proposed to reduce the existing rates instead of aiming at realising a surplus by the maintenance of the present charges.

The Chamber understood that in preparing its estimates the Post Office had provided for the reduction of the inland and Imperial letter rate to 1½d., the postcard rate to 1d., the printed matter rate to ½d., at the same time restoring a Sunday collection and delivery of letters, and possibly decreasing the telephone charges. Statements so far uncontradicted were that the Treasury was opposing the Postmaster-General, and was aiming at the continuance of the present high rates and the appropriation of the resulting surplus to general revenue.

The National Chamber requested the Belfast and District Chamber to get into immediate touch with its members of Parliament and to seek their support in claiming the reductions and opposing the Treasury endeavours to prolong the increased charges.

On the motion of Mr. Hall, seconded by Mr. Bell, it was decided to forward to Ulster members of the Imperial Parliament a resolution on the lines suggested.

POTHEEN-MAKING BANNED.

The ban from the Republican General Headquarters against the manufacture, distribution, or sale of potheen is being rigorously enforced by the Irish Republican Police all over the West Cork area.

PAYMENT OF WITHHELD GRANTS

The Cork Corporation has received a letter from the Minister of Local Government of Dail Eireann pointing out that during the coming financial year large sums of money will be available. They will represent the balance of grants which were withheld from the Corporation during the disturbed period in Ireland, after deducting all normal payments made to the British Government in respect of interest and principal on loans.

LONDON LETTER.

THE NEW POPE.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
MONDAY NIGHT.

The announcement that a new Pope had been elected was received with much interest in London to-day, and the newspapers containing the reports were eagerly read. Public feeling regarding the Papacy has changed greatly during the past forty years. Within the recollection of many people the Pope was regarded by the vulgar with indifference or hostility. But during the long reign of Leo XIII. a different feeling sprang up. Now the Pope and his office are regarded with respect, and a keen public interest is taken in the election to the Papal Throne.

It has been rumoured that the late Pope in his will mentioned the name of Cardinal Ratti, Archbishop of Milan, as that of a suitable successor. The College of Cardinals, while not bound by the suggestion, seem to have accepted it, and once again the last appointed Cardinal becomes Pope in the seat of the man who raised him to the Sacred College. The new Pope is an interesting personality. Before he became Archbishop he was Librarian of the Ambrosian and Vatican Libraries in Rome, and frequently in very close contact with Pope Benedict. During the war he made many secret missions on behalf of the Vatican to the belligerent countries, and at one time was Papal Nuncio in Poland. The policy likely to be pursued by the new Pope will not be revealed until he appoints his Secretary of State.

DOWNING STREET DISCUSSIONS.

Great activity prevailed in Downing street this morning, and there was much coming and going at the residence of the Prime Minister. It seems that there is a kind of crisis going on, but everybody is good-humoured concerning it and hopeful of a satisfactory solution. Other difficulties have come to the front in addition to the boundary question, and the Prime Minister intends to deal with this new development in his speech in the House of Commons to-morrow. The conference of the Prime Minister and the members of the Government with Mr. Griffith and Mr. Collins lasted an hour and a quarter, and at its conclusion Mr. Collins refused to make any statement. The official statement issued very soon afterwards conveyed very little.

Predictions are made to-day that, as soon as the new session begins, Ireland will become a storm centre, since a number of members are determined to raise the boundary question at the earliest moment. It seems certain that, if a vote should be taken in the House of Commons on this question, a considerable split would be revealed. At the same time, it is possible that an understanding will be reached between Southern and Northern Ireland before the question comes up in the Commons.

Up to the time of writing no meeting between the two Irish Premiers has been arranged, but Mr. Lloyd George saw Sir James Craig this evening. There may be some advantage in the Cabinet Committee's first ascertaining the exact position which the Free State Ministers take up before calling the Northern representatives into a conference; but, as there can be no amicable settlement without the consent of North and South, it is to be hoped that there will be no unavoidable delay in bringing them together.

MR. BONAR LAW.

Once again the attitude of Mr. Bonar Law is exciting curiosity. It is rumoured that he intends to be in his place in the House this session, and that, if there is a debate on the boundary question, he will be found strongly on the side of Ulster. As was shown last December, Mr. Law carries a great deal of weight with the Unionist Party. It was his speech in favour of the Irish agreement that ensured its acceptance by the majority of the Unionist M.P.'s, and, if he should consider the boundary settlement inequitable, his opinion might be decisive.

It is unfortunate that Lord Birkenhead should have developed a chill on the eve of the opening of Parliament. Lord Grey is expected to take his seat on the Opposition Bench in the Upper House to-morrow and thence to declaim a reasoned criticism of the Government's policy. In the ordinary course he would, doubtless, have been answered by the Lord Chancellor, and the contrast between the two men would have made the oratorical duel extremely piquant. Now, I suppose, the defence of the Government will be entrusted to Lord Curzon, and in that case the buttons will be kept on the foils.

The Ministerial dinners, which were resumed this evening, are a survival of the old days, when the text of the Speech from the Throne was submitted to gatherings composed of the followers of the Government of the day and of the Opposition. The consequence was that the contents of the Speech were public property the next morning, long before the words were read in the House of Lords. King Edward did not take kindly to the practice, and decided that the contents of the Speech should remain unknown until after he had delivered it. In the old days an invitation to a Ministerial dinner to a member of Parliament outside the Government circle was generally regarded as an indication that he was marked for office at a convenient opportunity.

OPENING OF PARLIAMENT.

A very big attendance of members is expected for the re-opening of Parliament to-morrow, and the party Whips have received intimations that many members of the House of Commons will be in their places for the early stages of the discussion on the Address. It is said that nearly every member is returning to Westminster from his constituency with a very definite mandate regarding national economy, and that the Government will have to realise that steps must be taken without delay to secure savings in all directions.

The amalgamation of the Midland and North-Western Railway Companies was not unexpected after the absorption by the latter organisation of the Lancashire and Yorkshire. All three lines belonged to the same "group," under the arrangement proposed by the Railways Act of last year, and it seems not improbable that the other five belonging to that group—the North Staffordshire, Furness, Caledonian, Glasgow and South-Western, and Highland Lines—will eventually join forces and that similar amalgamations will take place in the other groups.

RAILWAY POLICIES.

A rather interesting contrast is presented by the policies adopted by the Midland and the North-Western. The former has always been a pioneer, the latter has always tended to conservatism. It was the Midland that introduced excursions, restaurant cars, and cross-country expresses, and first ran third-class carriages on all trains (incidentally it abolished the second-class so long ago as the 'seventies). The North-Western rarely innovated on its own account; it waited to see how its rivals' experiments resulted, and then, if they were successful, went one better. I suppose, for speed and comfort combined, the express trains between Euston and Holyhead before the war beat anything in the world.

A point not yet settled is the fate of the Northern Counties of Ireland Railway. Some years ago it came under the control of the Midland Company. In the ordinary course, therefore, it would now come into the new combination. But now that Ireland is, for practical purposes, a separate entity—temporarily two separate entities—it is possible that there may be objections to having the administration of an important branch of her internal communications controlled from London.

ULSTER RESOLUTE.

BOUNDARY PROPOSAL REJECTED.

SIR J. CRAIG'S LETTER TO MR. LLOYD GEORGE.

SOUTHERN MINISTERS IN CONFERENCE.

Sir James Craig has written to Mr. Lloyd George defining his Cabinet's attitude to the Provisional Government's boundary proposals. The Northern Cabinet rejects these proposals and refuses to accept responsibility for the Irish Treaty.

"Mutual agreement" is the only basis on which Northern Ireland will submit to any alteration of her boundaries, and, failing this, she stands upon the Government of Ireland Act.

Mr. Lloyd George saw Sir James Craig, after reading his letter, but Sir James stood firmly by its terms.

Two conferences with Mr. Collins and his colleagues took place yesterday in Downing street, and Mr. Arthur Griffith, who has arrived in London, is expected to see Sir James Craig to-day.

NORTHERN ATTITUDE.

SIR J. CRAIG'S LETTER TO PREMIER.

Sir James Craig last evening issued the following statement:—

A meeting of the Cabinet of Northern Ireland was held in the Hotel Belgravia at 1 o'clock, at which were present—The Prime Minister, Sir James Craig; the Right Hon. Sir R. Dawson Bates, M.P., Minister of Home Affairs; the Marquis of Londonderry, K.G., Minister of Education.

Captain Charles C. Craig, M.P., attended to represent the members of the Imperial Parliament.

Important business was transacted.

At 2 o'clock the following letter was addressed by Sir James Craig to Mr. Lloyd George, defining the position of the Government of Northern Ireland regarding the question of boundaries. At the request of Mr. Lloyd George Sir James Craig called at 10 Downing street at 4.45, when he confirmed the terms of the letter, and explained that there could be no going back on the decision arrived at:—

Hotel Belgravia, Grosvenor Gardens, S.W.1,
5th February, 1922.

MY DEAR PRIME MINISTER,—I have held a meeting of those members of the Cabinet of Northern Ireland at present in London, to consider the question of the boundaries as it now stands.

Since correspondence began on the subject of an Irish settlement, we have relied on a sentence in your letter of the 20th July, 1921, to Mr. De Valera, which runs as follows:—

"It (the settlement) must allow for full recognition of the existing powers and privileges of the Parliament and Government of Northern Ireland, which cannot be abrogated except by their own consent."

Although the necessity for giving a final decision on behalf of the Government of Northern Ireland does not arise until after our Parliament has voted itself out of the Free State, as a result of our deliberations to-day I have to inform you that we adhere throughout to this principle laid down by yourself, and cannot consent to any alteration of our boundary except by mutual agreement, failing which in respect of any territory in dispute the boundary to stand as defined in the Government of Ireland Act, 1920.

I am sure that you will agree with me on the importance of preventing any further misunderstanding, and I am accordingly sending a copy of this to the Press.—Yours sincerely,

(Signed) JAMES CRAIG.

The Right Hon David Lloyd George, O.M., M.P.,
10 Downing street, Whitehall, S.W.1.

VISIT TO MR. LLOYD GEORGE.

Sir James Craig saw the Prime Minister for about half-an-hour at 10 Downing street last evening. Meanwhile the Free State representatives were busy with Mr. Churchill's Committee at the Colonial Office.

TWO CONFERENCES.

OFFICIAL REPORTS.

At 10 o'clock yesterday morning the Prime Minister and other representatives of the Imperial Government met Mr. Arthur Griffith and his colleagues at 10 Downing street, presumably for the purpose of considering the difficulties which have arisen in regard to the Northern boundaries.

The Conference lasted until 11.15, and at its close Mr. Michael Collins refused to make any statement.

The official report of the Conference was in very guarded terms. It read:—

"A meeting was held at 10 Downing street to-day between British and Irish representatives, to agree to the procedure for giving effect to the Treaty.

"The following were present:—British representatives—Mr. Lloyd George, Mr. Chamberlain, Mr. Churchill, Sir Gordon Hewart, Sir Hamar Greenwood. Irish representatives—Mr. Arthur Griffith, Mr. Michael Collins, Mr. E. J. Duggan, Mr. Kevin O'Higgins, Mr. Hugh Kennedy, K.C."

The following communiqué regarding the Conferences was issued from the Colonial Office last night:—

A further meeting was held at No. 10 Downing street at 5 o'clock this evening. All the representatives present at the morning meeting again attended, with the addition of Lord Birkenhead, who was unable to be present in the morning.

The Press Association learns that Mr. Griffith, Mr. Collins, Mr. O'Higgins, and Mr. Duggan had an interview with Mr. Churchill at the Colonial Office yesterday afternoon, and subsequently Sir James Craig called upon the Colonial Secretary.

Activity reminiscent of the days of intense excitement preceding the signing of the Irish Peace Agreement prevailed at 10 Downing street during the week-end (says the Press Association).

The dramatic meetings of Sunday culminated yesterday morning in the gathering at Downing street.

The events, in exact order, which led up to this meeting are as follows:—On Saturday morning the Prime Minister went to Chequers for the week-end. On Saturday night Mr. Michael Collins, Mr. O'Higgins, and Mr. Duggan arrived in London. No time was lost in arranging an interview with Mr. Churchill, who, as Chairman of the Cabinet Committee, is dealing with—among other questions—the difficulties arising out of the determining of the boundary between Northern Ireland and the South, and the whole of Sunday morning was spent in conference at the Colonial Office.

The two sides adjourned, and met again in the afternoon, and at 5 o'clock all the parties crossed at 10 Downing street.

In the meantime the Prime Minister had returned from Chequers, and met the Irish representatives at No. 10, where the Conference was resumed, at which, in addition to Mr. Lloyd George, Lord Birkenhead and the Government experts on the boundary question: Mr. Tom Jones, of the Cabinet Secretariat; Sir Masterson Smith, and Mr. Curtis—were present. Sir Gordon Hewart, the Attorney-General, was present part of the time. Late on Sunday night, in response to a summons from Downing street, Mr. Arthur Griffith arrived in London.

SPRING ASSIZES POSTPONED.

SIGNIFICANT DECISION.

The Provisional Government has communicated with the heads of the High Court of Justice in Ireland requesting them not to make the usual preparations for the holding of the Spring Assizes in the present year.

The request has given rise to much speculation in legal circles, which were expecting that the Assizes would go out on March 1st, according to long-established practice.

One suggestion is that the Provisional Government contemplates an early appeal to the country, and does not wish the business of the Assizes to coincide with the holding of a General Election.

HOME SERVICES.

POST OFFICE AND TELEPHONES.

While Messrs. Griffith and Collins are busy in London, their colleagues at home are fully occupied. Such departments of the Provisional Government as those relating to Education, Agriculture, and the Post Office are being kept active in dealing with pressing subjects.

Mr. Hogan, Minister for Agriculture, was visited yesterday at the City Hall by Mr. E. M. Archdale, the Northern Minister for Agriculture, and a conference, lasting nearly an hour, was held. It is presumed that the subject under discussion had reference to the transfer of administration to the Northern Parliament.

Distress in Connemara was brought to the notice of Mr. Hogan earlier in the day by Mr. O'Maille, a representative of Galway, and Mr. Thomas Casement, who gave particulars of distress existing in Gorumna and adjoining islands.

Mr. Hogan made arrangements for sending two inspectors of his department to survey the whole situation as to the shortage of food and agricultural seeds. It is hoped that it will be possible to take steps to have sufficient supplies of seed distributed in the district shortly. Mr. Hogan also hopes to be able to make a definite announcement without delay as to provisions for relieving immediate distress. Later it is expected that a permanent scheme to solve the problem will be set up, and among the proposals in this respect receiving attention is a scheme of migration to agricultural districts in other parts of Ireland.

POSTAL TRANSFER.

IMPROVED FACILITIES.

Improved postal and telephone facilities are under consideration by Mr. J. J. Walsh, as head of the Post Office. It is understood that he has called for a report as to the removal of the telephone and telegraph instruments and the cutting of wires in various parts of the country during the last few years, with a view to their replacement.

Efforts are being made to give an improved telephone service in Dublin by the introduction of a large switchboard, which, it is stated, has been lying idle for some time, and by various other improvements. Similar attention will be devoted to the services in Cork, Limerick, and other centres in the near future. The new switchboard, it is said, will make more business possible in the same time, and will provide better contact and increased efficiency.

Mr. Walsh is going to London to-night, and will be accompanied by members of his staff, to meet the Postmaster-General in reference to the transfer of services. It is thought that there will be a little difficulty in the transfer of the Savings Bank, as it involves the setting up of a highly technical staff on this side, and will require the consent of Irish depositors to the transfer of their accounts.

Reports from the strike area in Munster indicate that the public are pleased with the attention given to their requirements by the immediate institution of motor transport for the conveyance of mails. It is stated that no town involved in the area suffers very materially in this respect in consequence of the strike.

Attention is called to the fact that the Irish Post Office is in a position to co-operate with the English and Continental aerial mail services, and instructions bearing on this point will be at the disposal of every post office within the next few days.

It is learned that numerous designs for the new Free State stamp are being received. Many have come from Great Britain and the Continent, but the majority is submitted by Irish artists.

The possibility of the use of motor cycles and cars in the distribution of the mails in rural districts is being investigated. This will give a more expeditious service. The question of cost is the main factor to be considered.

MOTOR VEHICLES.

TRANSFER OF CONTROL.

Among the matters which are said to be engaging the attention of the Provisional Government is the question of restoring to the local administrative bodies the registration of motor vehicles and the issuing of motor car and motor drivers' licences, as well as the collection of the motor tax, as was originally provided in the Roads Act of 1920.

By an Order in Council, issued in February of last year, these functions were transferred to the police and Post Office authorities, in consequence of the hostility to the British Government of the popularly elected bodies.

The police permit to possess or use a motor vehicle will no longer be necessary when these changes have been made.

It is also understood that pending prosecutions in respect of refusal or failure to pay the motor tax are under consideration with a view to having a stay put upon such prosecutions.

CABINET MEETING.

FURTHER DIFFICULTIES.

At noon yesterday the Cabinet met, following the meeting of the Privy Council, at 11 o'clock.

Sir James Craig did not see the Prime Minister during the week-end.

It is learned that, in addition to the boundaries' question, other difficulties are involved.

The Southern Irishmen, it was stated by an authority, are in good humour, and, despite the fact that in many quarters the situation is described as a crisis, there was a degree of optimism discernible in official quarters.

The Prime Minister is expected to deal with this new development in the Irish situation in his speech in the House of Commons to-day.

Mr. Arthur Griffith is remaining in London for a day or two, and it is quite probable that he will meet Sir James Craig before returning to Ireland.

Mr. Michael Collins and his colleagues left for Ireland last night, and will lay before the members of the Provisional Government the arrangements which were made yesterday morning as to the best procedure for giving effect to the Treaty.

MR. COLLINS'S VIEWS.

BOYCOTT QUESTION.

Mr. Collins, before leaving London, in an interview, said that the Conference with the representatives of the British Government was principally devoted to the numerous details which had to be arranged in taking over the complete control of Ireland. It was very necessary to discuss the best procedure for carrying into effect these details.

He would not admit that the question as to Ulster's boundary was discussed, but added that Mr. Arthur Griffith was remaining in London, and said that although no arrangement had been made to meet Sir James Craig it was quite possible that such an interview would take place.

The representative of the Press Association asked Mr. Collins whether there was any reason for believing that the situation was less tense than at the close of his interview with Sir James Craig in Dublin.

"I can only reiterate," said Mr. Collins, "that we insist that majorities must rule, and it is that principle for which the Treaty stands. Our attitude has been made perfectly clear and that is—that we will not coerce any part of Ulster which is desirous of remaining in the area controlled by the Northern Parliament; but neither will we allow coercion of any part of Ulster which votes itself into the Irish Free State."

Mr. Collins would not say whether the boycott of Belfast would be reinstated. "But," he added, "I cannot say what our policy would be in the event of certain eventualities. We are reasonable people, and if the other people prove reasonable there will be no difficulty."

The Attorney-General (Sir Gordon Hewart) was engaged in the Conference on the Irish situation throughout the whole of Sunday—from 11 in the morning till 11 in the evening.

CATTLE DISEASE RAGING.

EFFECT ON IRISH SHIPMENTS.

The ravages of foot-and-mouth disease in Great Britain are becoming alarming. Yesterday was another bad day, fifty-nine additional cases having been reported to the Ministry of Agriculture.

So far Ireland has remained free from the disease, but the recent Order, which applies to the whole of Great Britain, will have a serious effect on exports of stock from Ireland.

Only fat animals may be landed, and they must be immediately slaughtered.

FRESH OUTBREAKS.

GREAT SLAUGHTER OF STOCK.

The Ministry of Agriculture announced last night that 59 fresh outbreaks of foot-and-mouth disease had been confirmed in Great Britain during the previous twenty-four hours. The total number of infected premises was 428. One county in Scotland—Dumbartonshire—has been added to the list of those infected.

The total outbreaks are:—

England—in twenty counties	406
Wales—in one county	1
Scotland—in eight counties	21
A total to date of	428

The number of animals the slaughter of which has been authorised by the Ministry to date in connection with the above-mentioned outbreaks is as follows:—7,115 cattle, 691 sheep, and 1,316 swine.

In addition to these cases, reports have been received by the Ministry during yesterday of 54 suspected cases.

Salford Cattle Market, the chief centre of meat supplies for the populous district of which Manchester is the centre, will be closed to-day. As a rule, about 2,000 cattle and 8,000 sheep are sold there weekly.

Since Friday 1,000 head of Irish cattle, which are free from disease, have been killed in the Ship Canal slaughter-houses. Dead meat is arriving in large quantities.

EFFECT OF NEW ORDER.

CHECK TO IRISH SHIPMENTS.

The Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction for Ireland have been officially informed by the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries, London, that the Ministry have made an Order withdrawing all the previous Orders affecting the movement of animals in Great Britain issued in connection with the present outbreaks of foot-and-mouth disease there.

The effect of this new Order, so far as shipments from Ireland are concerned, is that only fat animals may be landed at all landing places in Great Britain, and the movement of these animals from the landing places is allowed only on licence to slaughter-houses for immediate slaughter thereat. Such licences are only to be issued by the local authority of the district to which the animals are to be moved.

IRISH CATTLE DETAINED.

A consignment of 300 cattle was ready for shipment at Cork yesterday by the Kenmare, which sailed for Liverpool, but they were detained as the result of an official inspection. As to a suspected case of foot-and-mouth disease in Cork, cattle dealers state that there is no justification for any suspicions concerning Irish cattle.

SHORTHORN SALE POSTPONED.

The Bristol Shorthorn Show and Sale, which was to have been held to-day, has been postponed by the request of the authorities owing to the presence of foot-and-mouth disease in other parts of the country.

The Hull cattle market is still closed owing to the foot-and-mouth disease epidemic. Several new cases were reported in the district during the week-end.

IRISH SESSION.

TO-DAY'S ARRANGEMENTS.

For the opening of Parliament to-day the King will be accompanied by the Queen. The Royal procession will consist of six carriages, with an escort of the 1st Life Guards. The Duke of York will go to the House of Lords in advance of Their Majesties. The Princess Mary's name does not figure in the order of ceremonials.

There was a return last night on the part of the Leaders of the Parliamentary Parties to the pre-war custom of eve-of-the-Session banquets to their supporters. The Prime Minister and Mr. Chamberlain jointly entertained Ministers and officials of the House of Commons, with the mover—Captain Hacking—and the seconder—Captain Ernest Evans—of the address. Sir George Younger was among the guests.

Afterwards Viscount and Viscountess Farquhar gave a reception to Coalitionists to meet the Prime Minister and the Leader of the House of Commons. The "at home" was largely attended, and was a brilliant function.

The Marquis Curzon entertained the Government supporters in the House of Lords, and Lord Crewe gave a dinner to the Liberal Peers.

The intention of the Prime Minister up to last evening was to speak in the House of Commons fairly early in the course of to-day's debate, but possibly the plan may now be varied. No official information is yet forthcoming, however.

Mr. Asquith was to have led the Independent Liberal criticisms, and the Premier would have followed immediately after him, in accordance with custom. But Mr. Asquith has twisted his leg and will not be able to attend to-day. He hopes, however, to participate in Wednesday's sitting.

In these circumstances Sir Donald Maclean is to lead the Independent Liberal assault upon the policy of the Government, and it remains to be seen whether Mr. Lloyd George will reserve himself to reply to any criticisms offered by Mr. Asquith when he is able to appear.

The Central News Lobby Correspondent says:—With reference to Ireland, there is talk of a "Die-hard" amendment to the Address, as the "Die-hards" feel that the muddle which has arisen over the Ulster boundary question gives them an opening.

Official circles deny that there is any crisis in regard to Ireland, and other quarters attribute Mr. Collins's actions and writings largely to electioneering and the growth of the Republican element in Ireland, as evidenced by the vote of the Sinn Fein women's clubs, and in other ways. But undoubtedly Unionist members are disturbed at the precipitancy of the evacuation of the troops, and are more disposed than hitherto to sympathise with the position Sir James Craig took up as a result of the meeting of his Cabinet in London yesterday.

On the whole, a lively and interesting session, critical for the Government, is anticipated.

BERLIN STRIKES.

HOUSEWIVES TAKEN BY SURPRISE.

BERLIN, Monday.

Although the arrangements for the emergency gas, water, and power services were functioning yesterday, the greater part of Berlin was still unprovided with these necessities. The streets last night were plunged in darkness, and the telephone service was also crippled.

The strike has taken housewives completely by surprise, and long queues of women are to be seen at street pumps fetching water. The Municipal Council is negotiating with the strikers, while the Wirth Cabinet is discussing the railway situation with political leaders and railway unions, but not with the National Union of Railway Workers, which is on strike. Meanwhile the rail strike has extended to Mecklenburg. Reports from Stuggart say that the Engine Drivers' Unions of Wurtemburg, Baden, and Bavaria have declared that they cannot stay outside the strike unless the Berlin Government forthwith enters into direct negotiations with the striking union.

THE MARCHIONESS CONYNGHAM.

The Evening Standard announces the engagement of Mr. A. Baldwin Raper, M.P., to the Marchioness Conyngham. The wedding will probably take place early in June.

Mr. Baldwin Raper served in the Royal Air Force as a lieutenant during the war. As a partner of Mr. C. Peto Bennett, the well-known London and Liverpool merchant, he has had a varied career, and has travelled extensively in Europe, Asia, and Africa. He speaks several languages.

MIDLAND GREAT WESTERN RAILWAY.

The Midland Great Western Company announce that from to-day goods and live stock traffic will be dealt with as usual.

THE NEW POPE.

ARCHBISHOP OF MILAN CHOSEN.

POPULAR REJOICINGS IN ROME.

CARDINAL DIPLOMAT'S CAREER.

Cardinal Achilles Ratti, Archbishop of Milan, has been elected Pope, and has assumed the name of Pius XI.

The final ballot was taken yesterday morning, the Conclave having sat for five days. The news was announced to the crowds gathered in the Piazza di San Pietro by a column of white smoke from the much-watched chimney.

Immediately after the election the new Pope went out on to the balcony overlooking the Square.

It was raining at the time, but tremendous crowds had gathered on the Piazza. The people greeted the new Pontiff with frenzied cheering and vigorous waving of handkerchiefs, while the Italian troops drawn up in the Square presented arms.

The new Pope, who was wearing a red cloak and hat and was surrounded by the Cardinals, stood for some time on the balcony smiling on the crowd before him in response to the ovation.

He then slowly extended his arms at the same time as Cardinal Bisleti raised his hand to the crowd as a sign to it to be silent, and Pope Pius XI. gave his blessing.

His Holiness gave a second blessing at 12.47, and then withdrew. The bells of St. Peter's and of all the churches in Rome had meanwhile begun to peal, but the people continued to fill the Square for a long time afterwards.

SENSE OF FRIENDLINESS.

The usual practice of a new Pope is to give the blessing inside the Basilica, and this variation of the custom has impressed the Italians with a sense of the new Pontiff's friendliness to Italy.

After the ceremony of the blessing Prince Chigi Albani, Marshal of the Conclave, by order of the Secretary of the Conclave, issued the following communiqué:—

His Holiness Pope Pius XI., while making every reservation in favour of the inviolable rights of the Church and of the Holy See, which rights he has sworn to affirm and defend, has given his first blessing from the exterior balcony overlooking the Square of St. Peter's, with the special intention that the said blessing should be addressed not only to those present in the Square, and not only those in Rome and Italy, but to all nations and all peoples, and should bring to the whole world the wish and the announcement of that universal pacification that we all so ardently desire.

Cardinal Ratti is regarded as a non-party man and has never been prominently identified with either school of thought on the question of the relationship between the Vatican and the temporal power in Italy.

The new Pope is the junior Cardinal, being raised to the position when he was created Archbishop of Milan last year. He is a famous scholar, and speaks many languages, including English, in which he is very proficient. He is a personal friend of the Roman Catholic Bishop of Salford, whom he visited twenty years ago. He is said to be the only Pope who ever trod the streets of Manchester.

POPE PIUS XI.

SCHOLAR AND STATESMAN.

Cardinal Achilles Ratti was born on May 30, 1857, and, at 64, is the junior Cardinal Priest. After preliminary studies in the Diocesan Seminaries, he completed his course in Rome at the Lombard College, obtaining the triple doctorate of his University in Theosophy, Theology, and Canon Law.

He was ordained priest in Rome in 1879, and celebrated his first Mass over the tomb of St. Peter in the Vatican Basilica. From 1882, on his return home to the Branza, to 1888, he was Professor of Dogmatic Theology and Sacred Eloquence in the Diocesan Seminary. In the latter year he was appointed to the staff of the College of Doctors of the world-famed Ambrosian Library, founded by Cardinal Frederico Borromeo.

In 1907 he was unanimously elected head of the famous Library, and in 1911 he was called to Rome as Pro-Prefect of the Vatican Library, and assistant to Father Ehrle, whom he succeeded as Prefect in 1913.

The great war put an end to his career as librarian. On April 25, 1918, Pope Benedict XV. sent him as Apostolic Visitor to Poland in order to regulate the affairs of the Church in that unfortunate country. When Poland finally obtained her restored independence, the Pope, to show his sympathy with the Roman Catholic State, appointed Monsignor Ratti Apostolic Nuncio to the new Republic of Poland, and in the Consistory of July 3, 1919, created him Titular Archbishop of Lepanto.

Poland, after the peace of Brest-Litovsk, was still occupied by German troops, although there was a Council of Regency, consisting of Archbishop—now Cardinal—Kakowski and two others. The situation was in every way difficult and critical, but the Nuncio displayed such remarkable tact and diplomatic skill that he played quite a leading part in the final settlement of both the political and ecclesiastical difficulties.

It was chiefly owing to his efforts that two articles were introduced into the Constitution of the State. One declared that the Roman Catholic religion occupied first place in the Polish State, and the second, of still more practical importance, declared that no measures concerning the Roman Catholic Church might be taken without the preliminary agreement of the Holy See.

Through his diplomatic good offices, he obtained the liberation of many prisoners and hostages from the hands of the Russian Bolshevists, including the Archbishop of Hohilev and the Bishop of Minsk. Quite recently he was appointed as Ecclesiastical Commissioner for the plebiscite in Upper Silesia at the unanimous request of Poland, Germany, and the Inter-Allied Commission.

He was created Cardinal at the Consistory of 1921. It has been noted that Monsignor Ratti was the second Apostolic Nuncio in Poland who has been recalled to become Archbishop of Milan and Cardinal. The precedent occurred so far back as 1713. His Cardinalate title of Martino di Monte was for four years held by his illustrious predecessor, Borromeo.

The new Pope is the author of many scientific writings, and is a man of very wide culture. All his life he has been a strenuous Alpinist, and is a member of the Italian Alpine Club.

BIRR BANK ROBBED.

LARGE SUM CARRIED AWAY.

About noon yesterday four armed men drove up in a motor car to the Provincial Bank, Birr, and took between £500 and £700.

They then drove away in Tipperary direction. When the alarm was given the I.R.A., in two motors, left in pursuit.

THE ROYAL MARRIAGE.

The announcement is authorised that Major Sir Victor Mackenzie, Bart., D.S.O., M.V.O., Scots Guards, will be Viscount Lascelles's best man on the occasion of his marriage to Princess Mary. Sir Victor, whose seat is Glen Muick, Aberdeenshire, is in his fortieth year. He succeeded his father as third Baronet in 1906.

INDIAN POLICE ATTACKED.

17 KILLED & STATION BURNT.

Telegrams have been received from Bombay announcing that the Chauri Chaura Police Station at Gorakhpur, in the North-East of the United Provinces, has been stormed by two thousand Khalifat Volunteers. The garrison of nine Indian ranks was killed and the station burned down. Two of the attackers were killed.

Eight armed policemen who had been sent out to reinforce the besieged garrison were ambushed and killed.

The railway and all communications between Chauri Chaura and Gorakhpur were cut.

PRINCE AT BHOPAL.

HER HIGHNESS THE NAWAB

BHOPAL, Saturday.

To speak of Bhopal is to think of Her Highness the Nawab Begum, the only woman ruler in the whole of Asia. A dainty little figure, exquisitely clad in pale blue silk, with a white purdah over her head and shoulders, she stood on the red-carpeted platform in the brilliantly decorated station to greet the Prince of Wales on his arrival at 8.30 this morning.

Whither came the Heir-Apparent, and her third son, who commanded the escort of two squadrons of the Victoria Lancers, both clad in superb gold brocaded uniforms. Her Highness's second son, as Commander-in-Chief of the State Forces, rode about the citi superintending the guards along the route.

The Prince, on alighting from his train, saluted and shook hands cordially with the Nawab Begum. After greeting the Nawabzadas and Sardars of State and inspecting the guard of honour, the Prince passed out of the station with Her Highness, assisting her to a seat by his side in the Royal barouche.

Bhopal looked beautiful during this early morning drive, its scattered white houses and mosques and towers clustering amid rich green clumps surrounding many lakes.

On arrival at the Lal Kothi, the Prince left the carriage, the Nawab Begum, who had been talking to His Royal Highness with much animation, returning to her palace.

At 10.30 Her Highness, accompanied by her Nawabzadas and Sardars, motored over from the Sadar Manzil Palace to pay a formal call upon the Prince. Honours were rendered by a guard drawn from the 112th Infantry Regiment, and as Her Highness was ushered into the Durbar Hall the band played the Bhopal Anthem and 21 guns boomed forth their salute.

After a short conversation with the Prince, the Nawab introduced the Heir-Apparent, who rose, bowed low, and stepped forward to shake hands with the Prince.

The Nawabzadas and Sardars then presented the Nazars to His Royal Highness, who touched and remitted the gold mohurs to each in turn.

Shortly after the conclusion of this visit, the Prince attended a Durbar of the Nawab at the Sadar Manzil Palace to return her call. Her Highness received the Prince as he left his motor car, conducting him to the reception room, where he occupied a seat at her right hand. The picturesque ceremonies of the State Durbar being concluded, the Nawab presented Pan and Itr to the Prince.

This finished the formalities of the day, and His Royal Highness went riding, and played tennis in the afternoon.

At the State banquet in the evening, the Nawab Begum came in after dinner specially to propose the Prince of Wales's health, for, being orthodox in her fare, she dined in her own apartments.

The Prince, in his reply, eulogised the fine services of Bhopal during the war, and its rulers' long record of loyalty to the British Throne.

GENERAL HIGGINSON ATTACKED.

TWO MEN WOUNDED.

Information was received in Queenstown last night that an attack by armed men was made yesterday evening upon a motor car at Killacloyne Bridge, about four miles from Queenstown, which, among other military officers, contained General Higginson, of the Cork District. He was returning to Cork after having attended the embarkation of 370 officers and men of the Cameron Highlanders at the deep-water quay, Queenstown.

It is stated that the attackers were beaten off by the General and his friends, who were armed, but that during the attack the driver of the motor car was shot through the body. He is not seriously wounded.

It appears that the occupants of the motor car gave chase after the attackers, and that subsequently a man, who, it is alleged, was guarding the railway bridge, was found badly wounded near the railway line.

At this time, it transpires, a private motor car came upon the scene, and the wounded man was placed in it and conveyed to one of the Cork hospitals, where, it is stated, he lies in a rather serious state.

It is thought that the injured man may have come between the fire of the two parties, but nothing definite can be ascertained as to the actual circumstances under which he was injured.

The opinion prevails that robbery was the motive of this attack. Killacloyne Bridge, where the occurrence took place, spans the Cork and Youghal railway line, and is about one mile east of the Queenstown Junction Station of the Great Southern and Western Railway.

ATTACKERS DRIVEN OFF.

Our Cork Correspondent states that at half-past five o'clock Colonel Commandant Higginson and two officers were returning from Queenstown to the Cork Military Barracks in a closed motor car, when they were "held up" by two armed men at a broken-down bridge about two miles west of Carrigtwohill. Shots were exchanged, and the civilians ran away.

The driver of the car was slightly wounded in the hand, and a civilian, who gave his name as Michael Savage, was dangerously wounded. The party, with the exception of one officer, were in uniform. Savage was found wounded inside a fence, and was conveyed to the military hospital. He gave his address as Glounthane, but when the military went to make inquiries they could find no man of that name there. Savage was not one of the two men who held up the officers.

MAN SHOT IN BELFAST.

BOMB THROWN INTO A HOUSE.

Thomas Gray, who is employed in the licensed premises of Mr. P. O'Boyle, Earl street, Belfast, was shot in the abdomen last night, and lies in hospital in a critical condition. His assailant, who is said to have been a lad of seventeen years or thereabouts, entered the premises and fired at Gray.

People on the premises endeavoured to capture the gunman, and one man actually caught hold of him, but he succeeded in freeing himself and getting away.

A bomb was thrown into the backyard of the house of Frederick Foster, of Seaforde street, and, exploding, shattered several windows and pierced the ceiling of the kitchen, but fortunately did not injure anyone.

As Robert Hunter, of North Queen street, and an assistant, were collecting rents they were confronted on Limestone road by four armed men. Both men were attacked by the bandits who seized a bag containing about £40 and decamped.

FAMINE IN THE WEST.

A GENEROUS OFFER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—We saw a statement in the Press this morning that extreme hunger and want, worse than anything since the Famine, at present exist in parts of Western Ireland. We hope, if the facts are as stated, that something will be done at once to remedy such a state of things in a country so well off as Ireland is, and with bank deposits swelled beyond all records.

We have written to the Lord Mayor on the matter, as we know the keen interest he takes in everything concerning the poor; and, in the hope of his starting a fund, we have offered to subscribe £100 if he considers that the case justifies a public appeal on his part.—Yours, etc.,

McGUIRE'S, LTD.

SIR JAMES BARRIE.

St. Andrews' Town Council last night unanimously decided to present Sir James Barrie, O.M., with the Freedom of the City, in recognition of his distinguished services to literature and drama. The ceremony will take place in May.

FROM TO-DAY'S LONDON PAPERS.

IRISH CONFERENCES.

THE BOUNDARIES QUESTION.

"THE TIMES" OF TO-DAY SAYS:—

The Irish negotiations now proceeding in London have much wider scope than the method and the possible extent of the delimitation of boundaries between North and South. The members of the Provisional Government of the Irish Free State have been called into consultation with regard to the legislation necessary to give effect to the December Treaty. It is obviously important that the two Governments should be agreed that the bills, as framed, do, in fact, fulfil the terms of the Treaty.

It is the desire both of the London and the Dublin Governments that all the powers of self-government should be taken over by Mr. Griffith and his colleagues at the earliest possible moment. The British Government would like all the arrangements for the transfer of powers to be concluded at latest by March 31st, which is the end of the financial year. The settlement of these two matters has been the subject of the conferences of the week-end. There is, as well, the awkward question of boundaries, about which Sir James Craig is principally concerned at the moment. It can be stated with authority that a revision of boundaries on the scale which Sir James Craig has outlined as the aspiration of the South has not been contemplated by the British Government.

COALITION CLEAVAGE.

THE DEBATES ON THE ADDRESS.

The Times, in a leading article on the opening of Parliament to-day, says:—To judge from the considered statements of the representative body of members of Parliament which we have published in the last few days, the House of Commons is beginning to realise that something is radically wrong with the system under which it has been content to work since the peace was signed. In this awakening we believe that the House of Commons is faithfully reflecting a revival of political consciousness in the country.

If Mr. Balfour, after infinite skill and patience, can find an honourable solution of the world problems of maritime warfare and the Pacific, why cannot the colleagues who were left at home grapple with and overcome the far less formidable obstacles which lie athwart the path of domestic reconstruction? The only conclusion we can come to is that the methods of Washington are better than those of Downing street. In fact, there can be no real advance without unity of aim and of action.

Can it be pretended for a moment that there is unity of aim and of action either in the Cabinet or in the Coalition, on which it leans for support? The debates on the Address which open in both Houses to-day will show with unmistakable clearness the widening cleavage between the two wings of the Coalition.

POPE PIUS XI.

A LOVER OF BOOKS.

The career of the new Pope has proved him to be a man of deep piety and wide learning in humane letters, as well as in the sacred sciences, observes The Times editorially. He has been a lover of books from his boyhood. He has been Prefect of the famous Ambrosian Library in his native Diocese of Milan, and he succeeded the late Father Ehrle as Prefect of the Vatican Library, perhaps the greatest, as it is the most famous library in the world. But he is no bookworm, no cloistered schoolman or scholar.

Until past middle life His Holiness was a devoted and accomplished mountaineer, with the coolness and courage which real mountaineering demands. He comes from the sturdy lower middle class, one of the soundest elements of the population in many parts of Italy.

The action of the new Pope in giving his inaugural blessing from the outside loggia of St. Peter's is significant, and it may be greatly significant, but it would be injudicious to exaggerate the meaning of the event. The communiqué upon it expressly states that His Holiness took the step, making every reservation in favour of the inviolable rights of the Church and of the Holy See, which he "has sworn to affirm and defend."

That seems to preclude all idea of an immediate reconciliation between the Vatican and the Quirinal. Many shrewd observers altogether doubt whether a "reconciliation" would be in the real interests of either.

ROYAL WEDDING.

THE "BEST MAN."

Major Sir Victor MacKenzie, Bart., D.S.O., M.V.O., Scots Guards, of Glen Muick, will be the "best man" at the marriage of Princess Mary and Lord Lascelles on February 28, says The Times. Sir Victor MacKenzie, who succeeded his father, the second baronet, in 1906, is 38. He is a keen all-round sportsman and a particularly good shot, and commanded the Special Reserve Battalion of his regiment towards the end of the war with the temporary rank of Lieutenant-Colonel.

Glen Muick, which is only a short distance from Balmoral, is one of the best sporting properties on Deeside, and in recent seasons has usually been let. The honeymoon will be spent in England.

GEDDES REPORT.

EARLY PUBLICATION PROMISED.

The Prime Minister has sent the following letter to Sir Edwin F. Stockton, President of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce, in reply to his recent communication on the subject of the Geddes report and postal charges:—

"MY DEAR SIR EDWIN,—I am very much obliged to you for your letter. It is of the greatest importance that the Government should know what the sentiments and opinions of so important a community are as to the Geddes report. I am fully in agreement with you that early publication is desirable. It would not have been fair to the departments that the Geddes criticisms should appear in the Press before the Cabinet has had an opportunity of examining the recommendations. We have now had the opportunity of going through the various proposals made with the greatest care, and you may anticipate publication at an early date.

"As to the postage, we are fully alive to the considerations which you present in your letter.

"Again thanking you for your communication, I remain, ever sincerely,

"D. LLOYD GEORGE."

TRAMORE COASTGUARD STATION.

At the monthly meeting of the Waterford No. 1 District Council, Mr. Patrick Hally, who presided, said that a building contractor had started to make dwelling houses out of two houses attached to the Tramore coastguard station. Mr. Hally added that he had been at Republican headquarters the other day and was informed that no one could take Tramore coastguard station as it was intended to put men there to train during the summer. The Council decided to communicate with the contractor and the local Liaison Officer on the subject.

PAWN OFFICE ROBBED.

Early on Sunday morning the pawnbroking establishment of Mr. W. J. Meagher, Stephen street, Waterford, was broken into, and a quantity of jewellery was stolen. The value is estimated at £25.

The outbreak of influenza, which appeared in Belfast last week, is spreading. Ten more schools were closed yesterday, bringing the total closed up to sixty. The epidemic has spread to the Northern from the Southern district, and cases have been reported in other areas.

FEARS ON THE RAND.

NO SETTLEMENT IN SIGHT.

STRIKERS GROWING RESTIVE.

WIDE COMMANDO MOVEMENT.

WHOLESALE SABOTAGE THREATENED.

A very ugly situation has developed on the Rand, where the militant section of the miners have decided to bring all the essential services to a stand-still by force.

The strike is a question of wages and hours, and hitherto has been conducted in a friendly spirit. The men at first refused to allow the pumping enginemen to remain at work, but later agreed, in order that the mines might be saved from flooding.

In the meantime General Smuts and other Parliamentary leaders worked hard to bring about a settlement. A conference of representatives of the masters and men proved abortive, and the Prime Minister then suggested that the Government should arbitrate on the matters at issue.

This course has not commended itself to a small section of the strikers, which adopted a sullen attitude. Commandoes, or flying columns, were formed, and minor acts of sabotage were carried out.

Now the advocates of violence seem to have won over a larger body, and wholesale intimidation and destruction is threatened. The moderate element is still in the majority, and the only hope is that saner counsels will prevail with the hot-heads.

CALL TO ARMS.

STRIKERS MOBILISING.

JOHANNESBURG, Sunday.

"Balloon going up," which is the strikers' code sign for all commandos to concentrate over the whole reef and prevent the carrying on of the essential services by force, is timed for to-morrow morning. This information comes from the strikers and the police.

The chairman of a mass meeting at the Town Hall this afternoon intimated that, in spite of the negotiations going on with the Prime Minister, all the strikers must obey orders as regards to-morrow morning, and pull out all the "scabs."

Another speaker, amid rapturous applause, warned the officials working the essential services that they would be pulled out to-morrow.

If these threats become realities, fighting along the reef is inevitable, and the 1913 outbreak will fade into insignificance compared with it.

If, on the contrary, the militant section again fail to fulfil the promised results, they will be discredited by all the strikers.

DIFFICULT TO PREDICT.

To-night it does not seem possible that the "balloon can go up." Every moderate man regards it as madness, but it is always difficult to predict what will happen on the Rand.

A deliberate attempt at train-wrecking was made on Saturday near Springs Station. Stones had been piled up on the rails two feet high, but the alarm was given by a ganger before any harm had been done.

The hillside suburb was picketed to-day in an attempt to prevent the officials from working the essential services in the City Deep Mines, but pumping was carried on as usual.

It is clear that there was a concerted commando movement on the whole of the reef to damage the railways and other public services at night and to intimidate officials engaged in essential services.

The latest incident is the cutting of the telephone wires. Some 4,000 men must have been engaged, but the vigilance of the police and a rainstorm checked the operations of the raiders. It is considered that the commandos are now becoming a menace to the Government.

EDUCATIONAL REFORMS.

RECOMMENDATIONS BY DAIL COMMITTEE.

The Dail Eireann Commission on Secondary Education has issued the decisions and recommendations, up to February 1, of the Special Committee on the co-ordination of programmes—primary, secondary, and technical.

The report states that the minimum age for admittance to technical class, and that the regular age for transition from primary to secondary schools, should be 14 years. The age for the 1922 county scholarships to secondary from primary schools should be from 13 to 15 years on June 1, 1922. These age limits should be reconsidered for future scholarships.

It is stated that technical schools should in the main be day schools, and that they should not be required to make provision for secondary education. Some provision, however, should be made for cultural and non-vocational subjects.

The new national programme for primary schools was considered absolutely and in the light of the requirements of both secondary and technical schools. It was decided that the "two-teacher" school was to be taken as the average type of primary school, and that it was not feasible to have two distinct types in primary schools for pupils of 12-14 years.

The new programme was approved regarding Irish, but in English "some slight alterations were recommended." These alterations have been embodied in the new programme. In teaching English grammar the terminology of Irish grammar should be used as far as practicable.

The new course of arithmetic was approved, and it was decided that algebra, geometry, and mensuration should be obligatory for boys in primary schools. It was not considered that science should be obligatory in primary schools, but science in primary schools and in secondary schools up to the age of 14 years should take the form of nature study.

Under the heading of "General" it is stated that a good reading knowledge of French may be acquired in two years (14-16) by omitting composition as such, and shortening the time given to Irish and English after 14. The proposed county rate of 1d. in the £ for scholarships for primary schools was considered a step in the right direction, but the opinion was expressed that it would not meet the national requirements, and would have to be greatly increased, preferably from State sources. The teaching of mathematics should be simplified. The questions of free secondary education and the uniformity of programmes for schools not under State control were raised, and to some extent discussed, but no ruling was made, as such matters were outside the scope of the Special Committee.

FUTURE UNDECIDED.

ROYAL HIBERNIAN MILITARY SCHOOL.

A good deal of interest is being taken both in Ireland and elsewhere as to the fate of the Royal Hibernian Military School under the new Free State Government.

The School, which is situated in the Phoenix Park, has since its inauguration nearly 158 years ago been devoted to the education of the sons of soldiers in the British Army. The question now arises—will the School be permitted to carry on here after the Army has left Ireland?

An Irish Times representative, who made inquiries yesterday, was unable to get any definite information as to what the fate of the institution will be. The most that could be said was that, for the time being, at all events, it appeared to be the policy to leave the School alone. But it is generally believed that the School will not be continued after the last of the troops have been evacuated.

There are about 410 boys in the School at present. Of these 114 are the sons of Irish soldiers, and about 200 are the sons of soldiers domiciled in Ireland. At no time was the School intended exclusively for the sons of Irish soldiers, but for the sons of soldiers generally. The School is financed exclusively by the War Office.

HOUSE-BUYING SCHEME.

TENANT OWNERS.

CITY CORPORATION'S APPROVAL.

A meeting of the Dublin Corporation was held yesterday in the Oak Room of the Mansion House.

Mr. J. J. Murphy moved the adoption of a report of the Housing Committee, submitting a scheme for the sale of cottage property to the tenants. He said that the matter had been under the consideration of a sub-committee for a long time, and they had gone into every item. The result of their labour had been passed by the Housing Committee as a whole, and had now been sent up for adoption by the Council. Under the purchase scheme a tenant would be enabled to purchase his house at an annuity which would be only a slight increase on the present figure of the weekly rent. By adopting the scheme they would be adding to the number of ratepayers in the city and creating a keener sense of civic spirit among the purchasing tenants. The best way to make that keener civic spirit was to encourage private ownership.

Moreover, the purchasing tenant could invest £5 or any multiple of £5 in the house. The scheme had been drafted by the Town Clerk, and it was proposed under it to give existing tenants of self-contained cottages erected by the Corporation under the Housing Acts facilities for purchasing the premises in their occupation. The terms of purchase were based on annuities practically corresponding to twice the Poor Law valuation, and reserved a ground rent approximating to one-fourth of the Poor Law valuation. Any extra money paid by the tenant would go to reducing his annuity, and would bring him nearer to the ownership of his property.

CIVIC SPIRIT.

Mr. Forrestal seconded the adoption of the report, and urged that it was the right policy for the Corporation to create a property-owning class, among whom a sense of civic responsibility was likely to arise. In seeking to do that, however, they did not wish to put an undue burden on the purchaser, and in very few cases would the purchase annuity be a material increase upon what the tenant was at present paying in rent. The Corporation wanted to guard against jobbing, and the purchaser must be the occupying tenant, and the sale must take place in compliance with regulations laid down by the Corporation.

Mr. Thomas Farren urged that it would be far more expensive for a tenant to be owner of a house and to have to keep it in repair than to be a tenant under the Corporation.

Mrs. McGarry said that it was absolutely necessary to put a sense of civic responsibility into the Dublin working classes, who were really paupers.

Mr. Raul protested against the scheme as a fraud on the poorer classes in Dublin.

Sir Andrew Beattie, supporting the resolution, said that it was brought forward by democracy on behalf of democracy.

Alderman A. Byrne, while supporting the scheme, said that he thought as he listened to the speeches that they should have a more extended report. He moved that the matter be postponed for three months, and the Law Agent and Town Clerk should report to the new Housing Committee on the position, so that especially the legal questions involved should be cleared up.

Mr. Gately seconded, but the amendment was lost by 17 votes to 22. The report was adopted.

BORROWED MONEY.

A letter was read from the Acting City Treasurer asking the Council to sanction the borrowing of (a) £5,600 at 6 per cent. per annum and (b) £1,550 at 5¼ per cent. per annum from the National Health Insurance Commission for housing and reconstruction purposes; requesting the Council's authority for the sealing of the necessary documents; and asking the Council to approve of the acceptance of further possible loans from the same source.

Mr. Raul proposed, and Alderman James Moran seconded, the granting of the sanction sought.

Sir Andrew Beattie—Before a month's time you can borrow at 5 per cent. He moved to strike out the words "and asking the Council to approve of the acceptance of further possible loans from the same source."

Mr. Shields seconded.

Mr. Moran—Does it provide that if money gets cheap we will have it cheaper?

The Town Clerk—Yes.

The amendment was withdrawn and the motion passed.

LABOUR ARISTOCRATS.

WAGES IN ENGINEERING TRADE.

A letter from the Town Clerk in reference to the rate of wages payable to members of the engineering and foundry trades in the employment of the Council was discussed.

The Town Clerk explained that a motion was proposed at the last meeting by Alderman Hubbard Clark that a deduction of 6s. be made retrospectively from the wages of the engineers in the service of the Corporation. To this an amendment was moved by Mr. Raul that they invite a conference with the Irish Engineering Industrial Trades Union to discuss the question of a reduction, and that, in the meantime, the wages be paid as at present.

Alderman Hubbard Clark said that he wished to remind the members that the 6s. had been put on by the employers in Great Britain voluntarily, because they considered that the state of trade warranted it. In July last it was decided that this should come off. The employés in Great Britain decided on a vote to accept the reduction which applied to Great Britain and Ireland. The people in Dublin accepted it for two weeks, and afterwards went on strike, and were out for 13 weeks. At the end of 13 weeks the Dublin engineers went back to work, accepting the reduction of 6s. It was only the members of the society who were employed by the Corporation who were in receipt of this 6s. It seemed to him an extraordinary thing how the unions conducted their business nowadays. He said that if the Dublin Corporation took the 6s. they would stop the city services. He submitted that there should be no exceptions made in this matter. He (Alderman Clark) was in favour of the outside tradesmen, as he did not see why tradesmen in the Corporation service should be the aristocracy of labour.

Mr. J. Farren said that he was surprised to see the feeling shown by Alderman Clark for the workers outside the Corporation.

Sir Andrew Beattie said that the Dublin engineers stuck to the trades unions in England so long as they were advancing wages, and then fell away from them when the wages began to go down. That was not reasonable.

Alderman McDonagh moved that the wages of the members of the engineering and foundry trades in the employment of the Corporation be submitted to the Labour Department of Dail Eireann.

The other proposals before the chair were withdrawn, and Alderman McDonagh's proposal was unanimously adopted.

RESENTED LETTER.

A letter was received from the General Secretary, Dublin Citizens' Association, with reference to the attendance of Corporation members at meetings of the Committee of Management of the Richmond District Lunatic Asylum. The discussion of the letter had been adjourned from the previous meeting to obtain the list of attendances, which was now submitted.

Mr. Raul asked why should the Citizens' Association have direct correspondence with the Corporation? They might as well have direct correspondence with the Licensed Grocers' Association or the Tobacconists' Association, or anybody. He objected to sending the record.

Alderman Staines also objected. A letter had appeared in the Press from a person connected with the Association in reference to the change in the system of treatment of patients in the Asylum which had taken place.

The Lord Mayor said that he had no knowledge of the letter referred to by Alderman Staines. He thought that they should not send

IRISH RAILWAY TROUBLE.

HEAVY LOSSES IN CORK.

The Irish railway strike still remains unsettled. No extension of the trouble was reported yesterday, and in some parts of the County Cork men who had given notices to the companies to cease work have withdrawn them.

The conference between the railway managers and representatives of the men's union sat in Dublin again yesterday. It is understood that some progress was made towards a settlement. The conference will be resumed to-day.

CORK CITY'S LOSSES.

The strike has almost paralysed shipping in Cork, and entailed severe loss on merchants and also on the quay labourers. Within the past week seven steamers with coal have been diverted to other ports. In addition to the hydraulic railway cranes being idle and all inland traffic by rail being suspended, the Cork City railway bridges across both branches of the river have been closed, causing great loss to importers whose stores are above the bridges.

The Great Southern and Western Railway workers at Fermoy withdrew their notice to strike at midnight on Sunday, and the men of the Cork and Macroom Railway also withdrew their week's notice to cease work, which would in the ordinary course have expired on Sunday.

The strike has largely increased the ranks of the unemployed in the Bantry district, and all over West Cork the unemployment problem is assuming serious features. Prospects are anything but cheering. All grades of railway employes are out of employment as a result of the strike.

A meeting, under the auspices of the Irish Transport and General Workers' Union, was held in the Town Hall, Bantry, on Sunday, and was largely attended. Expression was given to the views of labour generally, and of the union in particular, with reference to the whole labour problem as it exists at present, and to the outlook generally. Steps were suggested with a view of safeguarding the rights and interests of labour.

NORTH WALL DOCKERS.

Members of the Irish Transport Union employed by the London and North-Western Railway at the North Wall are still on strike, and 150 members of the National Union of Railwaymen in the same employment are now under notice in consequence of the boat service to Holyhead from the North Wall being suspended.

TROUBLE ON THE GRAND CANAL.

The dispute between the Grand Canal Company and its employés still drags on without any immediate sign of a settlement. Members of the Irish Transport Union are issuing permits to and endeavouring to facilitate the passage of boats belonging to traders on the canal, provided that the usual tolls are paid to the Strike Committee. The company are trying to counteract this effort by issuing instructions to lock-keepers warning them against recognising such permits and against giving lock keys to boatmen to open the locks.

BUILDERS' LABOURERS' WAGES.

All sections of builders' labourers in Dublin have agreed, by a small majority, to accept the reduction of 1½d. an hour on their wages as from February 1.

MORE TROOPS LEAVE.

INFANTRY AND ARTILLERY SAIL FROM DUBLIN.

Yesterday 39 officers and 411 men of the 3rd Rifle Brigade, who were stationed in Dublin, left the North Wall for Holyhead. They had with them 26 horses and 80 tons of baggage. Some officers of the 17th Lancers, with 25 men, and an advance party of the King's Royal Rifle Corps, from Clones, left for Portsmouth.

The 11th and 146th Batteries of the R.F.A., from Kilkenny, consisting of 12 officers and 204 men, left for Catterick. They took with them 145 horses, six 18-pounders, six 5-pounders, and 60 tons of baggage.

DEPARTURE OF THE CAMERONS.

At 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon 20 officers and 355 men of the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders, headed by their brass and pipers' bands, marched from Belmont Hutments through the main thoroughfares of Queenstown to Deepwater quay, where they embarked on the steamer Bandon, of the City of Cork Steam-packet Company, for Fishguard, where they will entrain for Aldershot. An advance party of the Camerons left for Aldershot early last week. The officers and men who left yesterday were paid a special farewell visit by General E. P. Strickland, Commanding the Sixth Division, at Cork, who travelled to Queenstown for the purpose. In addressing the departing troops, he complimented them on their splendid turn-out, and on their general conduct during the trying period when they had to discharge most arduous duties.

The Sussex Regiment is due to leave Carrick-on-Shannon soon for Ballykinlar Camp.

The Cavan Military Barracks, which were vacated by the Norfolk Regiment, have been occupied by the I.R.A.

"FOREIGN MILITARY STORES."

A notice has been posted in Tipperary, stating that the purchase of foreign military stores and equipment is illegal, and that those who purchase these articles do so at their own risk.

CATTLE-DRIVERS BUSY.

EXTENSIVE DAMAGE IN SOUTH TIPPERARY.

As part of a campaign to have grazing lands broken up and divided amongst the working classes extensive cattle-drives were carried out in the early hours of Sunday morning in many parts of South Tipperary.

From the park lands of Colonel F. S. Lowe, Kilshane House, Tipperary, 150 cattle, belonging to Mr. Daniel Devitt, Cashel, who held grazing lands there, were driven off.

A wall bounding the estate near Dromline, where a tract of land has been recently purchased, was pulled down for about a quarter of a mile, and carried away, and portion of it was thrown into a neighbouring pond. Portion of the wall bounding the demesne on the public road between Tipperary and Bansha was also thrown down.

At the front entrance to the demesne palings were torn up, wires were cut, and two wooden gates were thrown into a river. A heavy iron gate leading from the public road at Lacken into the demesne was pulled down, and one half of it was thrown across the road. The other half was carried away.

Posted up on the demesne were notices to the following effect:—"Ireland for the Irish and the land for the people. These lands are to be for the people, and not for ranches. The cattle were driven off these lands last night. Anyone found bringing them back or repairing walls or gates will meet with instant death.—(Signed) Captain Moonlight."

From the lands at Rathduff Stud farm, belonging to Major Edwards, the well-known race-horse owner, cattle and horses were driven, and gates and walls were thrown down.

There were similar happenings on the lands of Suir Castle, near Golden, which were purchased from the executors of the late Mrs. Massy by Major O'Malley. A similar notice to those on Colonel Lowe's demesne was posted up, and a large red flag was suspended from a tree.

Two years ago, when these lands were put up for sale, several hundred labourers assembled and objected, demanding that they should be divided amongst the working classes. The sale was stopped, and subsequently the lands were privately purchased by Major O'Malley.

There was also a big cattle and sheep drive from the lands of Mr. Robert McD. Sanders, Ballinacourtie, Glen of Aherlow. Gates and walls were pulled down, and notices were posted up threatening instant death to anybody who restored the animals to the lands or repaired the damage.

From the lands at Kilfeade, near Tipperary, belonging to Mr. Thomas Kennedy, Pass, Clonmel, cattle were also driven, but as the animals were being taken away a party of the I.R.A. appeared on the scene, and recovered the beasts.

Most of the cattle driven from Colonel Lowe's demesne have been recovered. The iron gates at the entrance to the demesne at Lacken have also been recovered and replaced.

The I.R.A. authorities in Tipperary officially announce that they have taken the matter up, and will deal severely with the perpetrators if they are detected.

Mr. M. Shelly, secretary to the Transport Workers' Union, Tipperary, states officially that the Transport Union knows nothing at all about the matter.

the return until some explanation was given of that letter.

Mrs. Wyse Power said that the letter did not strike her as bearing the interpretation Alderman Staines seemed to put on it.

The proposal to send the list to the Association was lost.

UNEMPLOYED I.R.A.

Mr. J. P. Mooney moved the following:—"That it be an order of this Council that in all works, big or little, to be undertaken by its various Committees, that 25 per cent. of the men to be engaged be taken from the unemployed list of the Dublin Brigade I.R.A., any order to the contrary to be rescinded."

It was agreed that the resolution should be handed in as a notice of motion.

INTERNATIONAL RACES.

MOTOR TRADE'S BIG SCHEME.

At a meeting of the Motor Trade Association (Irish Division, Midland), held last evening in the Dawson street Club—Mr. R. W. Archer presiding—the following resolution was passed, on the motion of Mr. Harry Ferguson, seconded by Captain H. J. Hosie:—

"That, as far as possible, all members of the motor trade present at this meeting enter a car or cycle for some sporting events this year to be organised by the Royal Irish Automobile Club; that each member undertakes to endeavour to get his clients or his friends to enter in the private owners section; that all undertake to do everything possible to influence international races here this year and in 1923; and that a competition committee of the motor trade be formed to draw up a programme; and that it be the duty of this committee to confer with the Royal Irish Automobile Club and the recognised car or cycle clubs in Ireland with a view to this programme being carried out."

BENEFIT TO COUNTRY.

WHAT THE SCHEME MEANS.

Mr. Ferguson, in proposing the resolution, said the time was now favourable for the Association to do a stroke of good work for this country. They all knew what the conditions of trade and industry were, and the amount of unemployment that existed. The question was what steps they could take to help themselves and help the country. They knew what effect it would have if they could induce hundreds of thousands of visitors to come to the country, and he asked them to consider what would be the best plan to attract them.

For some years people were simply afraid to come to Ireland, and even until recently people would not travel in their own country. Now they wanted to show people everywhere that Ireland was again a happy country, and they could only attract them by making it known that the country was in a normal state. They wanted to carry that conviction into the minds of other people by what he would call all the unconscious methods that they could employ. It was for those reasons that he suggested sporting events—races for the different kinds of cars. In that way, they would convey to the minds of people in England and other parts of the world that Ireland was again normal, and it would do more good than thousands of pounds spent on "conscious" advertising.

THOUSANDS OF VISITORS.

If they could get up really big international events it would be impossible to visualise the benefits that this country would gain. If they were organised they would have 50,000 or 100,000 people coming gladly to Ireland. It would mean tremendous benefit to trade and industry, and a help to the men who were engaged in making the country what they thought it ought to be.

The best thing that could happen the country was a real agreement between North and South. They in the motor trade could co-operate, and, without allowing politics to interfere, make their country a better place to live in. He believed that they could carry this project through.

Mr. Ferguson referred to the efforts to get up the "end to end" run again, and said that an international event would do a great deal of good this year. They wanted to aid the men who were trying to run the country under the native Government. They did not want people to take up the attitude that the roads were rotten and the climate was bad, and that nothing could be done. They wanted to get the country stabilised industrially, and to show that it was normal, and to strengthen the hands of men North and South who were trying to make it what they thought it ought to be.

BRITISH SUPPORT.

ENCOURAGING MESSAGES.

In support of the object of the resolution, Mr. Ferguson read several communications. Mr. Armstrong, Acting Secretary of the Royal Automobile Club, wrote:—"The first Irish motor car race was held in 1903, and I hope to see another international race held in your country when the roads are suitable."

Mr. Walton, of the Vauxhall firm, wired:—"We are trying to get race this year located in England, so could not support race in Ireland, except that we should prefer this to Isle of Man if unable to secure suitable course in this country."

A message from the Austin Company stated:—"Glad to learn from Irish Press that you are endeavouring to introduce speed and hill-climbing competitions in Ireland. Confident that not only British manufacturers, but all leading firms on Continent will be happy to have opportunity of being associated therewith. Consider your proposal is valuable to promote interest in the motoring industry. Assure you of our hearty support."

Mr. Ferguson said that he had also received expressions of support and sympathy with the project from Mr. Robert Crossley, of Talbot Darracq Company, Mr. Cozens, and others. If every agent did his bit in forwarding the project they would reap a big reward.

Captain Hosie, in seconding the resolution, said that he had this year seen the Gordon Bennett Cup course, and the roads were better than they were in 1903. A race would be strongly supported by local bodies, and the people would freely subscribe for a prize. It would be supported from the point of view of the employment it would give on the roads.

Mr. Drury Pyper supported the resolution, and urged the importance of taking up the matter immediately. The improvement of roads would give employment and was in the interest of the people locally.

GOVERNMENT'S POSITION.

Mr. J. Bridgeman suggested that a small committee should approach the Government with a view to improving the Gordon-Bennett course. He was sure they would get a sympathetic hearing.

Mr. Ferguson—We have got that already.

Mr. Bridgeman said that it would be a great scheme if they could get the roads done. They should show the English people that they were taking up the matter here, as they seemed to have great difficulty in getting a course in England at present.

Mr. Somerfield said that both competitors and visitors still entertained pleasant memories of the hospitality that they received in Ireland on the occasion of the Gordon-Bennett race.

Captain Hosie said he would not be afraid to drive a racing car over that course at present.

Mr. S. T. Robinson supported the idea in the resolution that they should invite the co-operation of the R.I.A.C. and other bodies.

Mr. Ferguson said that he wished to show that they would get support from them.

Mr. Somerfield mentioned that a Ministry of Sport would be functioning under the Government, and at the Irish Olympiad provision had already been made for a motor cycle race.

The resolution, which was supported by Mr. Gogarty, Naas, and Mr. Leo Callow, was passed unanimously, and a Committee was formed to consider the preliminaries.

The Chairman assured the members that the project would be considered at the meeting next week of the new Association.

LOUTH HUNT STOPPED.

When the Louth Foxhounds met at Cross guns on Saturday four or five men approached the Master, Captain Filgate, and objected to the hunt. As a result the hunt was taken away in another direction, where it was carried on without interference.

The nature of the objection has not transpired, but it is understood that this was the first occasion on which the Louth Hunt, which is universally popular, has encountered any opposition during its record of over half a century.

A LIMERICK CONCERT.

The Most Rev. Dr. Hallinan, Roman Catholic Bishop of Limerick, wrote to the local newspapers yesterday evening as follows:—"I learn that there are posters through the city announcing a concert for 3 o'clock on next Sunday evening at the Athenæum Hall. This announcement is based somewhat on a permission given by me without due reflection as to all the circumstances of the case, and the consequences which would follow from it, against the traditions and moral well-being of the community, and I hereby withdraw it."

TOWED FOR 800 MILES.

MISHAP TO CUNARD STEAMER.

After struggling against successive gales of wind, with high seas, for nine days, the Anchor liner Calabria succeeded in towing the disabled Cunard freight steamer Vellavia (5,272 tons) to Queenstown yesterday. The disabled vessel was given over to three tugs, which assisted her to safe anchorage in the inner harbour. It was a splendid piece of salvage work, and reflects great credit on the commander, officers, and crew of the Calabria.

The Vellavia was bound from London to Portland, Maine, and left the Thames on the 20th ult. She had got well into the Western Ocean when she encountered a fierce storm. She rolled heavily, and the crank shaft of the propellor was carried away, leaving her quite disabled. An "S.O.S." radio was circulated for assistance, and it was picked up by the Calabria, which was bound from New York and Halifax to the Clyde. The commander at once altered his vessel's course, and went in search of the disabled steamer. She was found on the 28th ult about 800 miles west of Cove.

The offer of assistance was accepted by the Cunarder captain, and in the course of a few hours the towage was begun, but, owing to the mountainous seas, the cables parted, and during part of the day and the entire night the Calabria stood by the disabled steamer, which laboured heavily. Later a connection between the vessels was again made, and good headway was accomplished, but unfortunately in another outbreak of bad weather the cable again snapped. Nothing daunted by these mishaps, the Calabria stood by the Vellavia, and for the third time towing cables were, after a great risk of drowning of the boat's crew, passed to the disabled vessel.

For nine days and nights the towage lasted, the crews of both steamers suffering much from constant exposure, and at daylight yesterday the port was reached.

The Vellavia lies in the inner harbour at anchor, pending the Cunard Company's decision whether she will be towed across Channel or whether repairs will be effected at Queenstown.

SEIZED MOTOR CARS

TAKEN FROM POLICE OFFICERS

On Friday evening a motor car owned by the County Inspector of the R.I.C. was taken from the premises of the Sligo Motor Engineering Company by a number of armed men.

On Saturday a motor car, the property of the District Inspector, R.I.C., of Manorhamilton, was taken by armed men from Mr. Gilbride's garage; and on Sunday evening while District Inspector Walsh, R.I.C., Collooney, was driving to his home he was stopped within a few yards of his house by armed men and his car was seized.

CAR STOLEN IN FERMANAGH.

On Saturday night Mr. Hanson, the owner of a motor hackney car, was hired to take some men out of Enniskillen. On the way they blindfolded Hanson, threw him out of the car, and made off with it in the Donegal direction. Special constables later gave pursuit, but no trace of the missing car can be found.

ACCUSED MAN INDICATES HIDING PLACE.

Yesterday in the Southern Police Court, Dublin, Lionel Bottomley, alias Very or Voiree, described as an ex-Service man, was charged with having stolen a motor car, valued at £288, the property of a Mr. Kirby, on January 29.

Mr. Kirby said that his car was left outside the house in Anglesea road. He missed it later, and yesterday morning he identified it in College street Police Station.

Detective Officer Durkan said that he arrested the prisoner on the previous evening, and told him that he answered the description of a man who was wanted in connection with the larceny of motor cars. The prisoner replied—"I can't say anything. I was employed in Ireland some time ago."

When he was taken to the police station he said—"I will tell you, as man to man, where the car is." The car was subsequently found in Hume street, the prisoner having indicated with a pencil on a sheet of paper where it would be discovered. In the Bridewell yesterday morning, when the charge was read over to him, he said—"You have it all. I will say nothing."

He was remanded till Thursday.

PAYING HER WAY.

IRELAND AS AN ADVERTISING FIELD.

Mr. C. McConnell, who is well known in Irish advertising circles, paid a visit to London last night, and spoke to the Publicity Club at the Hotel Cecil on the subject of "Ireland as an Advertising Field."

At the outset he remarked that the subject was a very wide one, and it was not possible for him to go into it in a very exhaustive manner. Therefore, he proposed taking it under a number of headings. "Ireland, as we all know, is the best advertised country in the world to-day," he said, amidst laughter, adding, "most of it is free publicity." (Renewed laughter.) When they considered Ireland as an advertising field they must always bear in mind that the whole population of Ireland to-day was only four and a half million people, and travelling facilities were not quite so much up-to-date. He was sure that they were all anxious to know something about the political position in Ireland. To a certain extent he was going to disappoint them. He was not a politician, and he did not intend to enter into a political discussion. But he could tell them that the small majority that the Peace Treaty was passed by was absolutely no index to the general feeling of the country. In his opinion, and he said it in all sincerity—and he was open to argue the point with anyone—there was over 90 per cent. of the population to-day in favour of the Treaty.

DONE WITH POLITICS.

That brought them to this point—Ireland as far as politics were concerned was finished. They would have a general election in a short time—a very short time, he hoped, before the people forgot what the general election was for. (Laughter.) When they had that election they would get men of standing, men of work, and men who had a stake in the country into political positions. The political conditions in Ireland during the last ten years had not been what business men would like, at any rate. Certain conditions had to exist, while certain political points had to be gained, and the business man felt that it was not his place to interfere. But Ireland now, he felt, was getting to work.

For over one hundred years Ireland made practically all that she needed, and there was not the slightest doubt about it that Ireland of to-day was going to make a very big bid in the future to develop her industry. If England wished to sell her goods in Ireland she would have to wake up, because there was a big effort being made to foster Irish industries and to develop them. Speaking as one without actual inside knowledge, his own personal opinion was that Ireland would not impose a tariff on goods being imported from Britain. For several reasons, if the Irish wanted to develop industry in their own country, it was not necessary to put a tariff on British goods. They could very easily subsidise their industries. They could release the duty on tobacco and sugar and matches, and in that way they could foster and develop industries in Ireland. Geographically, Ireland and England were very well suited to trade with each other, and for his part he would like to see trade developed on both sides, and to see a mutual feeling that it was value for value.

IRELAND'S WEALTH.

On the question as to whether there was any wealth in Ireland, he showed that in 1910 the deposits and cash balances in the Joint Stock Banks amounted to £52,505,000, and on June 30, 1920, these had gone up to £163,509,000. The deposits in the Post Office Savings Bank grew from £15,370,000 in 1917 to £16,940,000 on December 31, 1919. The amount of Government Stocks on June 30, 1920, was £95,063,000, an increase of £52,000,000 over the corresponding period of 1914, and £4,000,000 over 1919. Those figures gave a total of £203,000,000 on deposit in the banks, in the Post Office, and lodged in Government Securities, and provided a surplus of £72,000,000 over and above the imports into the country during the year. That meant that they were able to pay cash for all goods that they received, and still have £72,000,000 in the bank.

As to the best way of getting that money, he said that if they were going to approach an Irishman they must know something about psychology. The study of advertising, in his opinion, was the study of human nature. Ireland was certainly a promising market, but there was not the slightest doubt about it that it required tact and imagination to approach it. It was no use advertisers sending into Ireland standardised syndicated copy. There was absolutely no inherent or permanent prejudice against British goods, but the Irish people were very particular about the quality of goods.

SUPPORT THE GOVERNMENT.

LORD POWERSCOURT'S APPEAL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—As one of the few Irishmen who do not take part in political controversy, I wish to make an urgent appeal to my fellow-countrymen for their support of the Provisional Government, which is now responsible for the complete organisation of this country. I feel that many are still content to remain silent, either because they may not approve or because they are not yet satisfied. To both of these parties I would appeal, as seriously as I can, to give their support to the present Government and to sink their own private opinions for the time being, in order that Ireland may be given a chance to recover and to build up a solid foundation of peace and prosperity.

In order to achieve this every citizen must have the will and courage to pull his weight. Ireland must be united to-day if she is to recover, and unity among all Irishmen is the only way to achieve this in the shortest time. If Ireland is to be split into sections now, nothing can result but chaos—a chaos far worse than what we have been through in the past, a chaos in which all classes will suffer alike; and who shall say what will be left of Ireland and the Irish at the end of it?

As a plain Irishman, who loves his country, I do implore all parties to think this out, and for the present, at least, to close up the ranks and to stand solidly behind the Provisional Government until the machinery of the country is set running again. There will be time enough to discuss amendments when the country has regained her health.

Surely it is not too much to ask all creeds and classes of Irishmen to submerge their private convictions and to lend a hand, by voice and action, when their country wants their help and above all, their moral support?—Yours etc.,

THE BOUNDARIES QUESTION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—May I suggest a plan which might prove to be a way of settling the present boundaries controversy? A new register of voters will shortly come into force. This has been made up after being keenly contested at the recent Revision Sessions, and may be taken as being a thoroughly representative one under existing conditions. I would suggest that, as soon as may be convenient after it comes into force, a referendum, plebiscite, or whatever you may like to call it, be held in every district electoral division (by which I mean the small divisions in use from 1899 to 1914, and not the larger groups formed in 1920 for proportional representation purposes) in every county in Northern Ireland, and in those Southern Ireland counties (Donegal, Leitrim, Cavan, Monaghan, and Louth) that border the Northern jurisdiction.

The question before the electors would be a simple one:—"For inclusion in Northern Ireland" or "For inclusion in the Irish Free State." Then, when the result of the poll is known, any division or group of adjoining divisions that has declared against remaining in its present jurisdiction could be transferred to the other, provided that it physically adjoins a division (or divisions) in the other jurisdiction that has voted in favour of remaining where it is. This would, in my view, go a long way to settling the problem in Armagh, Fermanagh (where the Roman Catholic districts form the extreme west and the extreme south-eastern portions of the county), and, perhaps, Down.

I admit that Derry and Tyrone would not work out quite so easily; but my scheme would have the advantage of taking away from the Northern Government some "white elephant" Celtic fringes which they will otherwise find an increasing source of trouble, and of removing from the Free State probably those Protestant portions of Donegal, such as parts of the new Killea and Lifford Unions, which are already "between the devil and the deep sea." I venture to put forward the views I have expressed above, and hope that they may prove worthy of further consideration.—Yours, etc.,

"AN IRISHMAN."

Co. Fermanagh, February 6th, 1922.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—The crux of the difficulty between Sir James Craig and Mr. Collins seems to be that the latter objects to certain Roman Catholic and Nationalist communities being under the rule of the Northern Parliament. But, apparently, it is quite right and proper for Protestants and loyalists of the South and West to be under the Free State. That in Mr. Collins is but a choleric word which in Sir James Craig is flat blasphemy.—Yours, etc.,

TAXATION IN THE FREE STATE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—The somewhat complex provisions of the Finance Act, 1920, show what would be the result of treating the case of Ireland as on a par with existing Dominions. The effect would be, in brief, that residents in the Irish Free State holding shares in British concerns (such, for instance, as Guinness) would be liable to an aggregate income tax of at lowest the full English rate, England never relinquishing more than half her standard rate. It is, however, obvious that to treat the two cases thus as on a par would be totally unjust. The case is really of the type where family or company adjustments of a special kind have to be made where parties, previously in union, are to be placed "at arm's length" in the future. Without such adjustments the grossest wrongs would result. Colonial investors in British concerns acted with a full knowledge of the positions as regards income tax and otherwise, while existing Irish Free State residents who thus invested, under conditions now non-existent, are in a totally different position.

It may further be pointed out that English statesmen have long acknowledged that the past order of things went far to paralyse Irish enterprise in this country, thus forcing investment in British concerns. Whatever arrangements are made as to future investments in such concerns by Free State residents, it may fairly be claimed, therefore, that those at present existing should be liable to Free State income tax only. It is obvious that certain classes of shares and interests could not be disposed of within a limited period without heavy loss.—Yours, etc.,

THE DUBLIN TRAMS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—In your issue of Saturday, the old and persistent misconception that the word "tramway" is a contraction of "Outram-way" is repeated. The statement, too, that in 1800 Mr. Outram "conceived the idea in connection with the carrying of the products of the collieries by means of rails" is also incorrect. At the time mentioned he made certain improvements in connection with tramways. As the date given for Mr. Outram's activities is correct, conclusive evidence against the derivation is to be found in an Act of Parliament passed in 1794 for the construction of "an iron dramroad, tramroad, or railway" between Cardiff and Merthyr Tydvil. The earlier tramways were made with wooden rails, a "tram" being an old Northern word for a coal wagon, derived apparently from Lowland Scotch "tram" for the shaft of a carriage or, more generally, a beam or bar. The word "tram" also appears in Old High German as "dram" or "tram," a bar or beam, with cognate words in the cognate languages. The word "tram" for a road or highway occurs in a will dated 1555 providing for the "amendinge of the higheway or tram from the weste ende of Bridgegait, in Barnard Castle."

The curious reader will find additional evidence in the Etymological Dictionary of Dr. Skeat, who was apparently in a somewhat sarcastic humour when he wrote on this word; for he says that Mr. Outram's connection with tramways "gave rise to the silly fiction (ever since industriously circulated) that 'tram-road' is short for 'Outram-road,' in ignorance of the fact that the accent alone is sufficient to show that 'Outram,' if shortened to one syllable, must become 'Out' rather than 'ram' or 'tram.'"—Yours, etc.,

AN ALL-IRELAND RATEPAYERS' ASSOCIATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—The formation of a ratepayers' association to embrace all sections of the community that pay local rates is certainly a timely and necessary movement. The first duty of ratepayers is to facilitate local government, so that our country may take its place among other progressive nations; but it is a very different matter to be called on to pay a rate which is unreasonable and would impose an unjust handicap on an individual ratepayers' industry. The primary objects of a ratepayers' association would appear to me to be (a), to prevent the imposition of an unreasonable rate; (b), to insist on local rates being used for purely local purposes; (c), to see that services which heretofore were local, but, owing to altered circumstances governing trade and commerce, must now be deemed national, are maintained from national funds; (d), to ensure that rates contributed for any specific purpose are used for that purpose only.

As Chairman of the Athy Branch of the Irish Farmers' Union, the members of which contributed about two-thirds of the total rates in their territory, I deem it my duty to call them together to form a branch of the All-Ireland Ratepayers' Association, and this I shall do at an early date; and the door will be open to all ratepayers.—Yours, etc.,

J. J. BERGIN.

NEWS FROM ALL PARTS

£3,000 JEWELLERY ROBBERY.—A further remand was granted yesterday in the Dublin Police Court in the case in which James Newman was charged with having, with others, stolen by force and violence jewellery worth £3,000 from Messrs. Wine's premises, 33 Wellington quay, in February, 1921. After being arrested, the prisoner stated that he was one of the men that went to the shop and took the jewellery. Detective-Sergeant Mahon said that a man named Murray had already been arrested in connection with the robbery and sent to prison for 18 months. Newman was further charged, with Richard Corbally, of Upper Gloucester place, with having, on February 5, 1921, "held up" the Rathmines Town Clerk at Rathfarnham, and robbed him of money, which he had for the purpose of paying workmen. A remand was also granted in this case.

"DRUNKEN FREAK."—In Dublin Police Court yesterday, James Craney, horse dealer, Rutland place, was charged with having stolen £7 belonging to Mrs. Nellie Boyd, and also with having illegal possession of several garments. The accused man had spent the greater part of Saturday at the residence of the complainant, and had been drinking with her husband during the greater part of the day. Mrs. Boyd said that she believed that the accused man did not know what he was doing when he took the money—it was a drunken freak. Mr. Cooper bound the prisoner over to be of good behaviour.

BRAVERY REWARDED.—At yesterday's meeting of the Dublin Corporation the Lord Mayor presented to James Cahill, of 44 Upper Gloucester street, an award for bravery that had been supplied by the Royal Humane Society. WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION AWARD.—The Recorder of Dublin, sitting in Green street Courthouse yesterday, awarded £75 to Michael Markey, a labourer, employed by Messrs. G. and J. Burns, for injuries caused by falling eight feet into the hold of the steamship Magpie while loading on July 30.

CHOTA NAGPUR MISSION.—The annual meeting of the Women's Auxiliary Dublin University Mission to Chota Nagpur will be held on Thursday. Mr. Basil Mathews, who will address the meeting, is in touch with the student movement throughout the world, and is a member of the International Board of Missions. Tea, at a small charge, will be provided in 6, Trinity College, from 3.45 to 4.15 p.m.

ULSTER.

WATERED BUTTER FINE.—At Londonderry Petty Sessions yesterday W. Smyth, grocer, Lecky road, was fined £5, with £1 costs, for selling butter containing 20.79 parts of added water, the maximum allowed being 16 parts. The Food and Drugs Inspector said that the butter was labelled "Guaranteed pure; this butter is guaranteed to contain not more than 16 parts of added water." Defendant said he sold the butter as he bought it from the creamery.

Max Coleman, described as a clerk, of South Circular road, Dublin, was remanded yesterday in the Dublin Police Court on a charge of having obtained small sums of money by representing that he would enlarge certain photographs, which he had failed to do. "If he refunds the money it would be considered when the matter again comes before the Court," said the magistrate.

There were two applicants for the position of Town Clerk of Lurgan, in succession to the late Mr. F. W. Pollock, at a salary of £350 a year. Mr. John Wycliffe Pollock, brother of the late Town Clerk, had the unanimous vote of the fourteen members present.

SOCIETY OF ST. NICHOLAS.

An enjoyable variety entertainment was given in the Hibernian Hall, Rutland square, Dublin, last night, under the auspices of the Society of St. Nicholas. A number of youthful artistes appeared, and acquitted themselves creditably. Master Barrett, who is only nine years old, contributed some violin selections; Miss Eileen Behan, Miss Winnie Atkinson, and Miss Kathleen Grace added greatly to the evening's enjoyment. A laughable sketch entitled "Aunt Matilda" completed a well-balanced programme.

COFFEE opened steady, 1 to 5 points higher, and continued to improve owing to a more active spot demand, favourable Brazilian markets, buying by importers and trade interests, and covering of shorts. The market closed steady, 7 to 9 points up. Spot firm at 1/16c. gain. The stocks of coffee (Brazilian) total 968,000, compared with 941,000 bags last week. The week's warehouse deliveries aggregate 104,000, last week 140,000 bags. Approximate sales, 40,000 bags. March, 8.70; May, 8.67; July, 8.57; Dec., 8.54.

Relief from Indigestion Is a matter of minutes
Bisurated Magnesia stops your Indigestion almost instantly.
A remarkable and valuable feature of Bisurated Magnesia is the quickness with which it acts in the relief of Indigestion, Flatulence, Heartburn, Dyspepsia, Gastritis, etc. Immediately it enters the stomach it starts to neutralise the acid which is causing the trouble, and relief is thereby experienced in most cases within two or three minutes after taking the first dose. That is why so many grateful people have written of their surprise and pleasure at the almost immediate cessation of their pain, discomfort and distress.
It is ninety-nine chances to one that your own indigestion will yield just as readily to the wonderful remedial properties of Bisurated Magnesia, and that your heartburn, wind, pain, or whatever form your indigestion takes will rapidly and entirely disappear. Bisurated Magnesia is quite inexpensive, for either Powder or Tablet Form can be obtained at any chemist at trifling cost. In order that you may avoid disappointment it will be to your advantage if you just make certain that you are getting the sure, sane, and safe remedy by looking on the wrapper for the word "Bisurated" at the time of purchase. Without this word none can possibly be genuine.—BISMAG LTD., London, N.W. 1.

STOCKS STEADY.

INDIANS BETTER.

(FROM OUR FINANCIAL CORRESPONDENT AND THE "FINANCIAL NEWS" OF TO-DAY.)

Markets opened steady yesterday, with no outstanding feature at the beginning. A rather better feeling in general was engendered by the improved tone in the Oil market, which, in turn, reflected rather better markets in Paris and New York. The gilt-edged market opened very firm, and its most distinguishing features on the day were strength of War Loan Fives and Conversion Loan. Lists for the Seine issue closed at about 2 o'clock, and are understood to have been well over-subscribed. A good feature of the day was the cessation of urgent selling of Indian Government securities.

LONDON STOCKS WEAKER.

SOME RISES IN HOME RAILS.

The Stock Markets were very dull all round yesterday, and the general tone was weak. Week-end orders are now late in coming in, owing to the Sunday post difficulty, and consequently there was an almost entire absence of new business. Changes in British Funds were few. Consols were unaltered, but the 5 per cent. War Loan rose ⅛ to 93¼, and the Conversion Loan rose ⅛ to 70¼.

In FOREIGN GOVERNMENT SECURITIES, French Loans were steady and unchanged. German Threes did not change either. Brazilian Fours rose 1 to 53, and Italian Rentes also improved 1 to 22½. Chinese Bonds were steady, the Fives of 1896 rising 1 to 89. Japanese Bonds, on the other hand, were depressed. The 4½ per cent. fell 1 to 103, and the 4 per cent. 1½ to 85.

HOME RAILS shared in the prevailing quietude. A feature, however, was an improvement of 2½ points in London and South-Western New Pref. to 96. The Def., however, fell ½ to 22. Great Westerns, at 79½, were ½ down. North-Eastern Cons. rose ½ to 80. South-Eastern Def. declined ½ to 26½. Metropolitans, at 30, were ½ lower, but Underground Electric Income Bonds put on a point at 73½.

"Canpacs" improved 1 to 144 in COLONIAL AND FOREIGN RAILS, but Grand Trunks showed no movement. Argentines were flat. "B.A.G.S." at 60, Westerns at 39, and Centrals at 54 were each ½ lower, while Pacifics at 39 fell a point. Argentine Great Western Ord., at 39, was 1 down. United of Havana rose a point to 48. American Railways showed to advantage. Baltimore at 40, Chesapeake at 65, Erie Pref. at 15, N.Y. Ontario at 24, and Union Pacific at 148 were each a point higher.

OIL SHARES BETTER.

DISTINCTLY HARDER TENDENCY DEVELOPS AMONG THE LEADERS.

Although the volume of transactions in Oil Shares yesterday showed but little expansion, interest again being centred on the leaders and a few specialities, the market as a whole had a distinctly brighter appearance than of late, and higher prices were fairly general. The firmness was attributable to the more favourable American advices, while the strength shown by Oil Shares in Amsterdam on Saturday, and the hardening tendency reported from Paris were helpful factors. Royal Dutch were prominent among the leaders, opening well above the level ruling on Friday last, and although they slipped back at one time on sales from Amsterdam, a rally occurred in the "Street" dealings, despite the fact that the opening price in New York was slightly lower. The day's business resulted in an appreciable improvement. Shells were a better market, and some good buying of Mexican Eagles was reported. We understand that the underwriting in connection with the forthcoming issue of Pref. Shares by the Shell Transport Company was completed yesterday. Opening at 35, Royal Dutch came on offer from Amsterdam and fell to 34¾, but rallied in the Street to 34⅞, which left them ½ up on balance. Shells, which at one time were as good as 4 11⁄16, finished with a rise of 1⁄16 at 4 9⁄16. Mexican Eagles met with a much better demand than of late, and after touching 3 11⁄16 closed at 3 11⁄16, showing a gain of 1⁄16. The Prefs. also improved 1⁄16 to 3 11⁄16. Business in Burmahs was of a quiet character, but the Shares hardened 1⁄16 to 5 11⁄16. Anglo-Persian First and Second Prefs. strengthened to 23s. 4½d. and 23s. 10½d. respectively. The allotments in respect of the new Ordy. and Pref. Shares of the Anglo-Persian Oilfields are expected on Thursday morning, and it is reported that there are bids in Glasgow for the Ordy. at ⅝ prem., which conforms to the expectations of the London market, that the opening price will be ¾ prem. The Irish Motorist Insurance Protection Association.

NOTICE.

Many Motorists seem to be under the impression that they should not join the Association until their existing Policies are due for renewal. This is an error, as it prevents the Committee from knowing the strength of the Association, which is all important when terms have to be arranged with Insurance Companies.

Subscriptions need not be paid until such times as Premiums are payable, and annually from that date. In the meantime the Association will protect the interests of all whose names are registered on its books.

IDLE INDUSTRIALS.

PRICE MOVEMENTS FEW AND FAR BETWEEN.

Idleness reigned throughout the Miscellaneous and Industrial markets yesterday. Business was scarce, and price movements for the most part unimportant. B.A.T. were noticeably weak in the Tobacco group, but among Industrial concerns Dunlops showed firmness, and Jute Industries strengthened. A little profit-taking caused Courtaulds to ease slightly among Textiles, but in Stores descriptions Harrods met with support. Vickers further receded in the Iron and Steel group. Shipping securities were maintained, P. and O. Def. holding their ground. Insurances displayed a dull tendency, though City Equitable Associated held their gain of Friday last. Indian Bank Shares continued steady, and among Wireless descriptions Marconis remained firm. Pan de Azucars strengthened on the report in the Nitrate group. Recent new issues exhibited an irregular tendency.

Realisations were responsible for renewed dulness in B.A.T., which finished 1s. 3d. lower on the day at 60s. The Pref., however, hardened to 17s. 9d. Imperials eased to 51s. 6d. Canadians, however, kept the price at 18s. 3d. In the Miscellaneous trading group, Dunlops strengthened to 5s. 7½d.; the "A" Pref., however, lost 1⁄16 at 11⁄16, and the "C" Pref. 1⁄16 at ½; while the Debs. marked down to 94½ at one time. Cements fell back to 13s. 6d., though the Pref. continued at 14s., and British Portlands at 19s. Magadi Sodas further improved to 9s. 6d., and Borax Def. hardened to 32s. 3d.; while Brunner Monds put on a few pence to 23s. 3d. De Treys relapsed to 13s. 6d., or 6d. lower on balance. British and Argentine Meats strengthened to 21s. Crosse and Blackwells slipped back to 6s. 6d., the First Pref. to 16s. 6d., and the Seconds to 11s. 6d. Oil Cakes remained at 22s. 9d., and Lever 7 p.c. Prefs. at 15s. 10½d., but the 8 p.c. Prefs. lost the turn at 15s. 9d. Pink Prefs. improved to 12s. Wall Paper Def. eased to 5s. 10½d. Jute Industries rallied, the Ord. marking to 4s. 3d. and the Pref. to 9s 10½d. Among Canadian-Americans, Brazil Tractions recovered to 33. In the Electric Lighting group, Edison Swan and General Electric both fell 1⁄16 to 1⁄16 and 1⁄16 respectively. Land Shares remained quiet, though Pekins hardened to 8s. 6d. on the meeting, and Yangtse Corporation improved to 3s. 6d. Forestals, however, receded to 21s.

LOWER STEELS.

Among Iron and Steel descriptions, Vickers receded to 8s., which left them 6d. lower on balance. Pease and Partners also fell that much to 23s. 6d.; while Palmers Shipbuilding lost 9d. at 9s. Beardmore Pref., however, rose 9d. to 13s. 9d., and Baldwins kept firm at 16s. 3d., after marking 16s. 9d. Armstrongs continued at 14s., Cammell Lairds at 11s., Ebbw Vales at 11s. 6d., Dorman Longs at 15s. 9d., South Durhams at 1 11⁄16, and Swan Hunters at 1 5⁄16. Powell Duffryn put on 1⁄16 to 1 11⁄16 among Coal stocks. Apart from a fall of a point to 32 in Indo-China Def., Shipping shares showed little change. P. and O. Def. ruled at 285, Cunards at 17s. 6d., Cairn Lines at 17s., and Furness Withys at 24s.

WEAK INSURANCE.

Insurance Shares continued weak. Royal Exchange fell 5 points to 370, and Sun Life fell back to 23. Phœnix and Sun Insurance each lost ¼ at 9¼ and 14½ respectively, and declines of ⅛ were seen in London and Scottish at £2 6s. 8d., and in Sea Insurance at 2⅞. Prudentials, however, kept firm at 10⅜, and City Equit. Associated Pref. still ruled at 4s., after marking up to 5s. Among Banking descriptions Hong Kong and Shanghais recovered to 100, a rise of ½, and National Provincial £4 hardened to 9¼. National of Egypt lost ½ at 18⅛ and Barclays 1⁄16 at 6 11⁄16, while Lloyds closed a few pence lower at 50s. 6d. Chartered of India and National of India were maintained at 14¾ and 35, respectively. Following the appearance of the report, which revealed a satisfactory state of affairs, Pan de Azucars rose ⅛ to 1 11⁄16. Elsewhere in the Nitrate group little change occurred, most issues remaining steady at Friday's levels.

MARCONIS STEADY.

Marconis and the Pref. continued at 1 11⁄16 in the Wireless section, though Marines lost 6d. at 22s. 6d. Except for a loss of ½ at 32 in Indo-Europeans Cables showed no important movements. Courtaulds lost a few pence at 36s. 6d. in Textiles, and Sewing Cottons fell 6d. to 32s. 6d., ex div. Amal. Cottons remained at 10s., Fine Spinners at 32s. 3d., and Listers at 18s. 3d. Among Stores, Harrods met with support, and closed higher on balance at 23s. 6d., the B.A. Shares recovering to 11s. 3d. Selfridge 6 p.c. held their ground at 21s. 3d. Whiteleys, however, eased to 27s. 9d. Breweries were featureless, and Caterers remained steady at previous levels, A.B.C. ruling at 27s. 9d., Liptons at 19s. 9d., and J. Lyons at 3 1⁄16. Among Foodstuffs, Maypoles lost the turn at 5s 10½d., though Van Den Berghs remained at £1, Liebigs at 12¾, and Bovril Def. were maintained at 18s. Irregularity characterised recent new issues, for, while Union Castle Debs. improved to ¾ prem., African Steamships and Clan Lines fell back to 1½ dis. and ½ dis., respectively. J. Hoyles hardened to 5¼ prem., Fife Tramways to 5 prem., and Richard Thomas to 4¾ prem. De la Rue Debs. remained at 104. Liverpool Gas Pref. marked up to 2 prem.

LOWER MINES.

STRIKE FIZZLING OUT.

Conditions in the House yesterday were much the same as those prevailing at the close of last week. Business was generally slack, but markets maintained firmness. Among Mines, Kaffirs were dullishly inclined at the opening on the very indefinite nature of the week-end news regarding the progress of the Rand strike. Events there, however, seem to be drifting towards a climax, and it is evident that the desire for a settlement either by arbitration or the intervention of the Government is steadily increasing in the ranks of the workers. The rumours of rioting and sabotage are not confirmed in quarters in close touch with the situation, and it is insisted that the whole movement is gradually fizzling out, particularly since its original industrial character has become obscured by political propaganda and intrigue. General Smuts is closely watching developments, and it is significant that according to latest advices "the commandos are now becoming a menace to the Government," which would seem to indicate that the time is approaching for official intervention. The price of gold further declined 3d. to 95s. 5d. per oz., and this in conjunction with the contradictory nature of the news from the other side, and the absence of public inquiries, induced dealers to mark down quotations. Losses were not individually important, but they were fairly widespread, including most of the counters, which were well to the fore in the advance which occurred on Wednesday last week. Closing prices:—

THE MONEY MARKET.

PLETHORA OF LOANABLE CREDITS.

NOTHING DOING IN DISCOUNTS.

On the London Money Market there was still a plethora of loanable credits yesterday, and the effect of this was to drive down discount rates to such a level as practically to check business. The terms were so low in relation to money that nobody was working. Borrowers found surplus money offering for the night on nominal terms, old day-to-day money going on at 3, and fixtures at 3¼ per cent., with a little new weekly money offering at 3¼ per cent. In Discounts there was practically nothing doing except that one of the clearing banks was working in February bills at 3 per cent. Sellers of these were not particularly eager, because there was no profitable outlet for the money. March Treasury bills were 3¼ per cent. nominal; April and Mays 3¼ to 3 5⁄16 per cent., also nominal. Fine three months' bills were 3 5⁄16 to 3⅜ per cent., with occasional transactions at 3⅜ per cent., 60 days' paper being 3⅜ per cent.

Gold relapsed 3d. to 95s. 5d., the fair supplies in the market going to India. A resumption of Chinese selling caused a further set-back in the price of silver of ⅛d. to 34⅝d., spot, and 34¼d. forward.

Business was very quiet in the foreign exchange market, and, as a rule, the change in values was slight. The premium on the American dollar continued to lessen, sterling being quoted 4.32⅛. French and Belgian francs were unchanged, whilst German marks were without much alteration at 880. The following are closing quotations:—

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

We are officially informed by Mr. F. Tatlow, general manager of the Midland Railway of England, that the report which appeared in the Press yesterday morning as to the amalgamation of the London and North-Western and Midland Railway Companies, and the arrangements to be made in connection therewith, is devoid of foundation. Mr. Tatlow states that the information and statistics required before negotiations can proceed are not yet completed. The question of administration has not been either discussed or dealt with in any way.

The directors of the London Joint City and Midland Bank, Ltd., announce that Mr. Alexander H. Goschen has retired from the office of Deputy Chairman, and that Mr. Stanley Christopherson, director, has been elected a Deputy Chairman in his stead. Mr. Goschen retains his seat on the Board.

It is not generally known by the inexperienced investor that a purchaser of Exchequer and or National War Bonds has to pay accrued interest in addition to the market price, and vice versa, that the seller is credited with accrued interest to date of sale. One reason for this is that the banks and money markets deal every extensively in the Bonds referred to, and naturally they are not prepared to hold such securities even for a short period unless they are assured of receiving the interest accrued thereon. It is well that the uninitiated should appreciate the point, as it is an exception to the general rule applying to Stock Exchange transactions.

While we understand, says the Pall Mall, that a better feeling now exists between the local authorities and the British Columbia Electric Railway Company, no definite agreement seems to have been reached over the much-vexed fares question. In deference to the wishes of the Municipal authorities, the Company withdrew its application to the Dominion Parliament, to have the undertaking placed under control of the Dominion Railway Board, and was given the right to continue the six-cent. fare until July, 1922. Negotiations proceeded satisfactorily, and an equitable agreement for a revision of the Company's franchises was arrived at with the council of the city of Vancouver, but certain local opposition developed, with the result that the agreement drawn up was not adopted. The directors intimate that they are now giving consideration as to the best steps to be taken to preserve the Company's interests when the present agreement for the regulation of fares expires.

That this week's meeting of the Dunlop Rubber Company will be a stormy one goes without saying, but as a good many points will require elucidation it is to be hoped the issues will not be obscured by too much heat. Two points that pressingly require to be dealt with are:—(1) The present position in regard to the Company's large overdraft, and whether it is liquidated or is in course of liquidation; and (2) the huge discrepancies between the statements officially made a year ago regarding the value of the Company's assets, then said to be worth not less than £20,470,234, and the shortage of about £9,000,000 disclosed by the accounts made up only to a date of about six months later. If shareholders concentrate on these two points they will achieve a better result than if, as probably will be the case, the Board is bombarded with numerous questions.

The secretary of the Bengal Iron Co., Ltd., states that, in view of the rumours current in London last week, and during the time that this company was making its recent issue of Debentures, the Board cabled on January 31st to the company's managing agents in India asking whether they anticipated any serious trouble owing to the threatened action of the Non-Co-operators on that date. In reply, the managing agents cabled under date Calcutta, February 3rd, as follows:—"Replying to your telegram of January 31st, our answer is 'No.'"

Commenting upon the rise in Finlay's Tobacco Shares in Newcastle market, the Investors' Chronicle understands that negotiations are under way for taking over the Ordinary Shares at several shillings over the present market price. In any case even at 27/- they are a good investment on the basis of the dividend and bonus of 12½ per cent. Albert Bankers have been significantly active of late.

Developments in connection with the affairs of the City Equitable Fire Insurance Company, are being watched with interest in City circles. No confirmation could be obtained yesterday of the statement that holders of more than 40,000 shares are demanding a special general meeting to discuss the matter. An officer of the Company stated that he thought such a meeting might be held, but at present nothing had been done in the matter. It has not been suggested, he added.

The meeting of the Dublin and South-Eastern Railway Company will be held at the offices, Westland row Station, Dublin, on Thursday, 23rd February, at 12 o'clock, for the purpose of receiving from the directors the report, statement of financial accounts, and statistical returns for the year ending 31st December, 1921, and for transacting the business of the general meeting.

A circular issued states that, although the General Reinsurance Company has been able to carry its present commitments through without additional capital, the directors are advised by the new management that if the company is to take full advantage of the opportunities now offered owing to the peculiar situation in the reinsurance market to-day it is essential to call an additional 5/- per share to place the company in a position to support the new business with sufficient general resources. The call is payable 1st March, 1922.

During the week-end burglars stole brandy, champagne, and pickles from the Dublin General Shipping Company's transit sheds.

JOHNSTON, MOONEY, AND O'BRIEN.

The 32nd annual general meeting of this company was presided over by Mr. Frederick W. Pim yesterday at Trinity Chambers, Dame street.

The annual report has already been printed in our columns. The dividend on the ordinary shares is at the rate of seven per cent. for the half year to 31st December, carrying forward to next account £12,037 17s. 6d.

The Chairman, in proposing the adoption of the report and statement of accounts, referred to the loss that had been sustained by the death of Mr. John Mooney, junior, who had been at the head and the practical management of the business in association with his father for more than 20 years, and became sole managing director in 1920. Mr. J. R. Blood was co-opted in 1918 to fill the vacancy on the Board caused by the retirement of Sir Robert Gardner, and he as well as the company felt his loss keenly.

They had been passing through a very unsettled and anxious time in all kinds of business. The period of Government control of flour mills throughout the kingdom ended in March last, and there was no longer interference with either mill or bakery. They did not complain of any undue arbitrariness on the part of the authorities, but the intervention of the Government in the management of commercial undertakings was, in his opinion, always undesirable and only justifiable under exceptional circumstances. During a cataclysm, such as was brought about by the late war, economic principles and moral laws were suspended for a while, but sooner or later these laws and principles would reassert themselves, and Nemesis was now exacting a severe and world wide retribution for their neglect.

Under these circumstances it was not surprising that the results of their recent trading did not show the satisfactory regularity of former years. On the first half-year they had enough to give an interim dividend at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum; but the recent reductions in the price of the loaf were more rapid than the fall in flour and other materials, and at present the margin was extremely bare, with no immediate prospect of early improvement. It had to be borne in mind that there had been no reduction at all in the cost of labour, which forms a very considerable element in the cost of the loaf. Their wages were still in all departments not far short of three times their pre-war level.

In the present state of affairs he would be a very bold prophet who would venture on any forecast of the future, and he was sure they would approve the prudence of the recommendation of the reduced dividend for the half-year. At the proposed rate of 7 per cent., the dividend on the whole year would amount to 7½ per cent., as compared with 7 per cent. in 1920 and 6½ per cent. in 1919. This would leave £12,037 17s. 6d. to be carried forward, which was about £440 less than last year.

Mr. W. S. Hayes seconded the motion, which was adopted.

Sir Simon Maddock and Mr. W. S. Hayes, retiring directors, were re-elected, as also were the auditors, Messrs. Craig, Gardner and Co.

Before the meeting concluded, the Chairman announced that they had recently appointed as general manager Mr. Laidlaw, late of the British and Irish Company.

RECONSTRUCTION WORK IN FRANCE.

FINANCIAL EFFORT OF THE CREDIT NATIONAL.

A Correspondent, writing from the North of France, says that, as the result of a business trip through the war-stricken districts, he has been much impressed with the rapidity with which the work of reconstruction is proceeding. Factories, workshops, steel and iron foundries, and collieries are being fast put into working condition. Schools and private houses are also being erected everywhere, and despite the delay to which France has been subjected in the payment of the sum agreed upon for the war reparations, no effort is being spared to efface, as quickly as possible, the damage done by war. This gigantic work of reconstruction could never have been accomplished without the financial assistance of the Credit National. This officially created institution, thanks to the various loans issued to the French public, has been enabled to advance the money for reconstruction purposes. An idea of the importance of the financial aid given may be obtained from the following figures:—Up to 31st December, 1921, the Credit National had paid out to 2,689,379 claimants a total sum of 9,805 millions of francs for reconstruction purposes, and had advanced to manufacturers and merchants 272 millions of francs to enable them to re-start business.

It will be seen that the carrying out of such a vast programme requires an immense amount of money, and to enable it to continue its financial co-operation the Credit National has been authorised to issue an unlimited number of 6 per cent. 500-franc ten-year bills, dividend warrants, free of all French taxation, present and future. These bills—which are not in any sense premium securities—will be issued from now onwards till the end of February at 482 francs. Though the bills are for ten years, subscribers have the option of reimbursement at the end of two years—viz.: on 1st February, 1924, at 500 francs, or at the end of five years —viz.: 1st February, 1929, at 507 francs 50, but in such case this must be stated on application. Those who subscribe for 10-year bonds will be reimbursed on 1st February, 1932, at 525 francs per bill. From a French standpoint these bills, being free of local income and other taxes, offer certain advantages. M. Décamps, of the Bank of France, in a lecture recently given at the Republican Renaissance Club in Paris, expressed the opinion that it would take five years of severe economy to restore France to her normal financial condition. Assuming M. Décamps to be right in his forecast, this would imply that before the expiration of the 10-year bills the value of the French franc would have been restored from its present depression to something nearer its pre-war international exchange value.

THE GUINNESS DIVIDEND.

The declaration by the directors of A. Guinness, Son, and Co., Ltd., of an interim dividend of 9 p.c., free of tax, the same as a year ago, may be taken as a guide to the continued prosperity of this celebrated Dublin undertaking, says the Financial News in a leading article. In August, at the end of the last complete financial year, the Ord. dividend was raised from 12 to 18 p.c., with a bonus of 7 p.c., both free of tax. Last year's total distribution of 25 p.c. compared with 20 p.c. for 1919-20 and 16 p.c. for 1918-19. It will be of interest to recall the circumstances that, while the extra 5 p.c. was paid out of additional earnings, the directors in those three years added no less than £1,384,407 to reserve, thus more than making up the £1,000,000 withdrawn and distribute as a bonus to the shareholders four years previously, besides substantially increasing the successive balances carried forward.

ROOMKEEPERS' SOCIETY.

The monthly meeting of the Executive body of the Sick and Indigent Roomkeepers' Society was held last Friday evening at the offices, 89 Upper Dorset street, Dublin. Rev. John Carson, B.D., presided. Also present—Messrs. Thomas C. Cavanagh, Martin Mortell, Hugh Doran, Patrick Byrne James A. Finlay, Arthur Staveley, Patrick J. Cahill, Rev. John Flanagan, B.A., C.C., Hon. Secretary; C. O'Callaghan (collector), and John D. Brennan, Secretary. The report and financial statement for the month of January was read and adopted. It showed that 401 applications from poor families duly vouched in accordance with the rules, had been admitted, the amount expended in relief being £272 6s. 6d.

REVENUE RETURNS.

PROPORTIONS OF CONTRIBUTIONS.

A White Paper was issued yesterday, showing for the year ended March 31, 1921, the amount contributed by England, Scotland, and Ireland, respectively, to the revenue collected by the Imperial Offices, with the expenditure in the national services in each case, and the balances available for Imperial expenditure.

The aggregate revenue collected was £1,426,924,000, of which England contributed £920,430,000, Scotland £120,386,000, and Ireland £45,806,000. £340,302,000 was collected from other sources. The contributions were actually £913,699,000 England; £119,753,000 Scotland, £48,843,000 Ireland; and £344,629,000 other sources.

EXPENDITURE.

The total expenditure was £1,195,428,000, as follows:—On England services £231,436,500; Scotland £33,096,000; Ireland £32,976,600; and general services £897,919,500. The proportions were: England 77.79 per cent., Scotland 11.12 per cent., and Ireland 11.09 per cent.

OLD AGE PENSIONS.

Old age pensions cost £18,567,000 in England, £2,456,000 in Scotland, and £4,463,500 in Ireland. The bread subsidy amounted to £42,460,000, and of this £34,119,000 was expended in England, £4,397,000 in Scotland, and £3,944,000 in Ireland.

IMPERIAL SERVICES.

The balances available for contribution to Imperial services after local expenditure had been met was £682,262,500, or 11.05 per cent., in England; £86,657,000, or 11.05 per cent., in Scotland; and £15,867,000 in Ireland, or 2.02 per cent.

MEALS AT SCHOOL.

SCHEME TO FEED POOR CHILDREN.

The Minister for Education, Provisional Government, received a deputation yesterday of the White Cross School Feeding Sub-committee. The members of the deputation were Mme. Gonne McBride, Miss McArdle, and Sir Andrew Horne, M.D.

Mme. McBride introduced the deputation and explained its object. She referred to the fact that in almost every country nowadays all school children got, as a matter of course, one substantial meal at about mid-day. She alluded to the wretched state of a great number of the children in Dublin because of the inadequate provision made for a similar feeding system there. She advocated the establishment of a central kitchen which would cook for all schools in the city and motor transport for distributing the food to each school.

She stated that the White Cross had earmarked £3,000 for that specific purpose, but that the Committee of the Corporation which dealt with the feeding of school children had not approved the scheme. Consequently the £3,000 was likely to be lost. She asked the Minister to do his utmost to see that this money should not be lost to the school children. That £3,000, it was estimated, would be sufficient to provide a plant for the proposed kitchen, and the present Corporation rate of 2d. per child would be quite sufficient, she thought, to carry on, even to the supplying of the transport.

The Minister for Education said that from his own experience as a teacher he was quite cognisant of the dire necessity for the feeding of school children in Dublin. Of course, he could not force the Corporation to fall in with this proposal of a central kitchen, but would ask to see some members of the Corporation School Feeding Committee and discuss the question with them. He thought that school feeding would follow automatically when a proper system of medical inspection of schools had been brought into being.
